NOT "ABIE'S WILD IRISH ROSE"

This is Abie himself, surname Goldstein, who fights Teddy Silva in the ten-round main event at Vernon tonight. Abie is an ex-world's bantamweight champion, having had his crown removed by Cannonball Martin, who, in turn, lost the thing to Phil Rosenberg.

"Boxing under them are a pair of 115-pounders—Jack Ryshell and Billy DeFoe—who rate as main-event caliber too. Both should be slashing fights from start to finish.

WILD NAGS IN CALCIUM

Asoci Speedway will present a paradoxical aspect this week when it is taken possession of by the meekest stock of horses ever to throw a rider. Used to the utmost degree as a site for all kinds of auto competition, and impregnated so much with the smell of burnt castor oil, it will nevertheless be in charge of horses as wild as the autos were fast.

PIRATES CLEAN UP WASHINGTON

seven games, with the final hopes of the Senators resting again on their great veteran, Walter Johnson, who finished his second victory yesterday with an injured right leg—in baseball parlance, a charity case—and would be taking his greatest strength and heart to win again with only two days rest.

PRESIDENT CONVINCED

The first fan of the land, President Coolidge, did not stay to see the whirlwind finish of the Pirates, but even when he was called away by a diplomatic engagement in the third inning, he had seen enough to convince him that it was Pittsburgh's day. For it was the third inning, the first saw the onslaught of full swing, producing two runs that had put the Pirates in the lead after Washington had gotten away to a one-run advantage in the first inning.

FIND THE RANGE

Cuyler, Barnhart and Wright—three men whose hitting prowess loomed large in the season's pennant struggle—were in the first time in the series and the Senators' reserves and all could not hold their fire.

WHITES FINIS

While he finally retired under this barrage, Coveleskie paved the way for his own downfall by his unsteadiness and lack of control. It was passes to Carey and Cuyler that started the fireworks in the third inning, permitting these two speed merchants to dash over to Barnhart's hit and Traynor's sacrifice fly.

LEIBOLD SCORES

Leibold, battling for Ballou, doubled in the seventh and scored on Rice's sacrifice. The Cardinals advanced on Stanley Harris' sacrifice, but the heavy artillery of the Senators failed to come through in the pinch. Glavin and Joe Harris both expiring on flies, while Judge got a pass that did no harm. This was the last Washington menace, for Aldridge set his foot down in quick order in the last two innings.

LUCKY ESCAPE

But for a lucky escape by Coveleskie in the first inning when the Pirates failed to score after filling the bases, and a sensational stop by Joe Judge in the fourth, the damage by the invaders might have been even greater.

STRETCH SCORE

The Senators, spreading their three runs over many innings, missed as many good chances to score as did the Pirates, but they found Aldridge at his best when the danger was greatest.

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT DWANDER BILL HENRY

ONE of the strong features of the Stanford football team is its ability to retain possession of the ball. The Cards had a ball just a little less than fifty minutes out of the sixty played in the Occidental game. In the third quarter of the game Occidental had the ball for only one play, and that was when they intercepted a pass in their own territory and had to punt immediately.

BILL FRIEND LAID UP

U.S.C. Tackle Suffers Misplaced Vertebrae as Result of Game With Utah Eleven Saturday

Those rough, tough gridders from Utah, who succumbed, 38 to 1 at the Coliseum Saturday, created quite a little damage to the Trojan eleven before they absorbed their wallop. As a result of the afternoon's battle Bill Friend, one of Howard Jones' tackles, is laid up with a couple of misplaced vertebrae. Not that Bill has lost the vertebrae—but they're not in the same place they were when he began the game.

"Just Right" for Young Men

It would be folly to think that young men like the same kind of clothes that older, more conservative men prefer. Young men, quite rightly, we believe, like to be in the forefront of fashion—not conspicuous, of course, but with that note of "smartness" that emanates from London. So Jerrens Clothes for young men reflect style in both materials and tailoring.

New Colors are Thrush Brown, Dublin Blue, University Gray

Especially in young men's favor is Banckburn—designed this season with particular emphasis on beautiful, harmonious patterns.

BROWN REMOVED AS BISHOP

Formal Sentence Passed on Episcopal Prelate Convinced by Church as Heretic

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE)

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 12.—The name of William Montgomery Brown was ordered removed from the list of bishops when the house of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church assembled today in general convention here. Most Reverend E. Herbert Talbot, president bishop, announced at the opening of the house that he had deposed Bishop Brown from the sacred ministry in St. Paul's Church a few minutes before.

Bishop Brown had been convicted of heresy by a church court, and the conviction was sustained by a court of review and finally approved by the house of bishops. Today formal sentence was pronounced and his name stricken from the roll of bishops. Bishop Brown did not appear in St. Paul's Church to hear the sentence, although his attorneys obtained from United States Judge Louis H. Burns a show-cause order requiring the presiding bishop and house of bishops to appear in Federal court Wednesday morning to show their authority for action in the case of the convicted bishop. George Zabriske, New York chancellor, will appear for the bishops.

CEREMONY BRIEF
The deposition ceremony today

The presiding bishop, who is to be elected this week, will also be president of the council. The house of deputies today amended a resolution from the house of bishops fixing the prime's salary at $15,000 to read $12,000. The sum of $10,000 is provided for living expenses. The house of bishops must concur in the amendment to make it effective.

Rev. H. H. Powell, D.D., San Francisco, of the committee on amendments to the constitution, reported a recommendation against the adoption of an amendment which would make women eligible for election to the general conference. A contest was forecast, when the report is reached in the regular order of business.

COMMITTEE ON FLAG
The house of bishops notified the house of deputies today of the appointment of a committee to join a committee of deputies to consider the question of a church flag.

Rev. Walter H. Overa, bishop of Idaho, today presented his resignation, announcing that he is forced to retire on account of ill health.

A mass meeting to consider the question of evangelism in the church was held tonight under the auspices of the national commission on evangelism. Rev. Irving P. Johnson, bishop of Colorado, presided, and delivered an address.

Other speakers were Rev. J. A. Schaad, rector of St. Paul's Church, Augusta, Ga.; Rev. Floyd Tompkins, rector of Trinity Church, Philadelphia; and Rev. Loring Clark, general missionary of the field department.

Holiday Mail Goes to Arctic Months Ahead

(SPECIAL DISPATCH)

WINNIPEG, Oct. 12.—An unusually heavy mail went north from Winnipeg last week escorted by the mounted police, and included in it was a number of Christmas letters addressed many months ahead to residents on the fringe of the Arctic. In the hope that they would be carried on by men with small gas boats and then by hand, from post to post, until the final addresses would be reached.

This method is necessary because the Alberta and Arctic steamers do not now travel beyond Fort Fitzgerald owing to the lateness of the year.

RENEW MARRIAGE VOWS

Riverside Minister Invites Couples to Service

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE)
RIVERSIDE, Oct. 12.—Six hundred couples, all of whom have been married by Rev. Ira W. Barnett, since he has been in the ministry in Southern California, have been invited to attend services at the pastor's church next Sunday morning. Rev. Barnett is now pastor of the Cavalry Baptist Church here, and has sent out written invitations to those he hopes will attend the service. In the invitation is included the suggestion that if children have come to bless any of the homes, this is a good time for bringing them to church to have them christened.

"It is my intention," said Rev. Barnett today, "to make of this an opportunity to renew the sanctity of the marriage relation and to do what I can to renew the vows taken at the time of wedding."

A special musical program has been prepared and the services will be at the regular Sunday morning hour, 10:40 o'clock.

SHOWDOWN ON DRY LAW URGED

Federal District Attorney Hits Present Muddle

Warns of Menace to Whole Body Politic

Enforcement or Modification Held Imperative

(REUTERS DISPATCH)
NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—United States Dist. Atty. Emory R. Buckner over the radio from Station WJNY at the Hotel Roosevelt on "Law Enforcement," declared yesterday that "the best service any American citizen can render to his country today is to take steps to have the prohibition law intelligently and effectively enforced, or else modified or repealed."
Mr. Buckner's assertion came at the end of a speech in which he said that no one knew whether the prohibition law could be enforced because "the only methods by which the law can be enforced have never been tried."
In explaining this, he repeated his former statements that there are insufficient courts and judges to try expeditiously, by the complicated methods of trial by jury, to keep court calendars even reasonably free of liquor cases, and that the government pays too inadequate salaries to "prohibition agents who are placed in a position of temptation where they can make thousands and thousands of dollars a year."

POISONOUS SERVICE
"The American public," he said, "should be roused at the present muddle and consequent damage over the prohibition law. Non-enforcement or class enforcement or distinguished enforcement or camouflaged enforcement, whatever the whole Federal service in all departments. Corruption breeds crooks. Crooks breed criminals. Corruption is contagious. It is creeping gangrene, which spreads like a red and angry infection. We who are willing to have the law on the books of lawbreaking as a man who convalesces at a crime. I want to point out a thing which the American public does not generally realize: that when we turn the tapestry of personal comfort over and look at the reverse side we see the knots and rams and mottled surface of corruption, bribery, perjury and murder. This is the angle of the present state of affairs which interests me most, and it is a point of view which most people do not comprehend until they are given a 'close-up' of the situation by getting into an official position such as my own."
"The best service which any American citizen can render his country today is to take steps to have the prohibition law intelligently and effectively enforced or else modified or repealed. No responsible private citizen will undertake a job in private life unless he is prepared to see it through. The government should not take a job unless it is prepared to see it through."

REVERSE SIDE

"I do not share the view so often expressed by extremists that the man who buys liquor is as dangerous a convict of lawbreaking as a man who convalesces at a crime. I want to point out a thing which the American public does not generally realize: that when we turn the tapestry of personal comfort over and look at the reverse side we see the knots and rams and mottled surface of corruption, bribery, perjury and murder. This is the angle of the present state of affairs which interests me most, and it is a point of view which most people do not comprehend until they are given a 'close-up' of the situation by getting into an official position such as my own."

DENIES WHEAT POOL UNDERSELLS RIVALS

HEAD OF ALBERTA FARMERS' ORGANIZATION AVERES MARKET NOT AFFECTED

(REUTERS DISPATCH)
WINNIPEG, Oct. 12.—Reports that the Canadian wheat pools have been underselling other Canadian grain exporters were ridiculed by H. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta. Mr. Wood recently returned from a two weeks' visit to his old home in Missouri.
"I don't see how the pool could undersell without the effect being immediately noticeable on the market," said Mr. Wood. "It is true that the pool is selling direct to 150 European millers, but these sales are made on the basis of the market price at the time of sale. The fluctuations of this market price are simply the bids and offers. If you want to ask me, I would say I had the impression that the other exporters were bidding against us; we could accuse them of trying to undersell us."
Mr. Wood was told that Canadian millers had been hurt because of pool underselling their rivals. "They were having difficulty in selling their flour on the export market in competition with flour from European mills supplied by the pool."
"Then why don't the Canadian millers buy from the pool?" he asked. "Maybe somebody hasn't told you that the Canadian mills do buy wheat from us," he added.

M'MILLAN BACK FROM ICE LANDS
Portland Greet Explorer and Party
Commander Extolls Work of Companions
Stresses Hazards of Plane in Arctic Flight

(BY A. P. MORT WIRE)
PORTLAND (Me.) Oct. 12.—Commander Donald B. MacMillan and the thirty-eight members of his Arctic exploration expedition, scientists, aviators and seamen, were welcomed home today by a program of entertainment and excitement which extended from Wisconsin to this city.

Given more than usual disappointment by the worst summer the natives remember in the North, beset and delayed along the entire homeward route by gales which culminated in that which kept not only the expedition but nearly fifty friends and relatives marooned on the small wind-swept Monhegan Island, the attitude of them all was expressed by Commander MacMillan, when he said at a luncheon given him here: "This room looks good to us."

LAST DAY LONG
This last day of the expedition was a long one. The crew were again on the ships before 4 o'clock this morning preparing for the run for the mainland which the expected break in the gale would permit.

From the twenty or more homes on Monhegan, where they had found shelter, the band of relatives, friends and newspaper men gathered in the intense darkness preceding the dawn about the wind-swept dock where the Peary lay. Shortly after 5 o'clock the expedition got under way.

The culmination of the rejoicing at their safe arrival was reached at the luncheon tendered Commander MacMillan by the Portland Rotary Club.

It was at this luncheon that the leaders of the State, of the Army and Navy, of science and of education gathered to congratulate the explorer on his safe return and the accomplishments of the summer.

Commander MacMillan in return with a voice hoarse from the exposure and hardship of the long voyage south, thanked them for their reception and that of his men, then proceeded to extoll the work of his companions.

"The best crew I ever had" for the men who sailed the Bowdoin, "a fine body of men, in no way to blame for the failure of their effort" for the United States Navy aviators; commendations for the scientists of the National Geographic Society, "one of whom in a few weeks at Etah accomplished more than any other men had accomplished in years," were the tributes paid by Commander MacMillan.

TELLS OF TRIP
He stressed again the extreme hazard of flight of heavier-than-air planes above the Arctic Circle, reiterated his conviction that the

TURTLE WRECKS GRAVEL TRUCK
Vehicle Slides Into River When Wheels Strike Crawler

(REUTERS DISPATCH)
HARMONY (Mo.) Oct. 12.—Bert Poland took a turtle ride the other day that proved disastrous as Mr. Turtle started for the river with him and succeeded in landing him there truck and all. Poland was engaged in hauling gravel for the State road and came upon the turtle at the Bailey bridge. Thinking that he could straddle him by going slow he attempted it. The forward wheels went by all right, but the turtle made a quick move and the rear wheel of the truck hit him, tipping over the embankment dumping the load of gravel in the water and damaging the truck.

Poland said the turtle was as large as one of the truck wheels.

amphibian type of plane carried was the best suited for the undertaking, but that the dirigible is the only feasible method of air exploration.

"For the plane, there remains," he said, "much work in the interior of Baffin Land, discovered more than 400 years ago, but which is still unknown through most of its 600 miles' length and 300 miles in breadth.

"There are also thousands of unexplored lakes in the interior of Labrador, where an airplane may work.

"The men of the navy personnel worked night and day on the arrival of the expedition at Etah. The result was that all three planes were in the air in three days. August 21, last, there was one plane left and five of the six motors had been used. There remained 1000 miles of our objective to be attained in ten days while we had covered but ninety miles in the twenty days preceding. There was but one conclusion, which I knew and what the men knew, although they did not admit it at the time. It was absolutely useless to continue, and, further, had any accident happened and a plane been lost, either the Peary or the Bowdoin must have wintered in the Far North to attempt the rescue of the men in the spring."

DECISION ON DR. LOWELL WILL HOLDS
Arizona Supreme Court Finding Sustains Lower Tribunal; Widow Loses

(REUTERS DISPATCH)
PHOENIX, Oct. 12.—The Lowell astronomical observatory at Flagstaff will remain under the trusteeship of Guy Lowell of New York, whose full authority over the $2,000,000 estate of the late Dr. Percival Lowell has been sustained by decision of the Arizona Supreme Court. Affirmation was given a decision to that effect in the Superior Court of Coconino county.

The widow, Mrs. Constance Lowell, had attacked the will, which had left the bulk of the estate in trust for the observatory. Her attorneys declared that she sought perpetuation of the observatory on its present site, where also is the tomb of its founder, and that by the terms of the will the trustee was not obligated against its removal elsewhere. She had been left $175,000 and the household effects, and 45 per cent of the net income of the estate, the balance passing to the trust.

Allegation was made in the complaint that the trust was in violation of the State laws against continuing trusts. The Supreme Court decided that the bequest was a charitable one and, therefore, legal.

Justice Henry D. Ross wrote the opinion, one in which a large degree of credit was given the scientist for his efforts to perpetuate his special line of astronomical research.

DUEL SLAYER HUNTED
Assault Gun-Fighting Auto Thief Vanishes After Killing

(REUTERS DISPATCH)
CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Every armed man of the United States government in Chicago, and the nation-wide organization of the Department of Justice today carried on a search for Martin J. Durkin, gun-fighting automobile thief, who, last night killed Edward C. Shanahan, Department of Justice agent, in a revolver duel that started when Shanahan ordered the outlaw under arrest.

Durkin had vanished completely today, without having left a trace except the racy blue automobile in which he was riding when he encountered Shanahan, and which he abandoned.

While the search for Durkin continued, police held three women for questioning. They were the hunted man's mother and sister, Lucille, and a young woman who had accompanied him from California recently. She said she was Mrs. Betty Warner. Durkin and Mrs. Warner arrived in Chicago a few days ago riding in an expensive automobile. Government agents were assigned to arrest him for violation of the Dyer law against interstate traffic in stolen automobiles.

INHALATOR FAILS TO SAVE STRICKEN MAN
Despite efforts of Lieut. Hotelling and a fire department squad, who worked over him for two hours with an inhalator, Robert Mueller, 33 years of age, 3937 Menlo avenue, died from acute indigestion yesterday afternoon. Mueller was employed as a diamond setter by the James A. Pfeiffer Co., 514 Title Guaranty Building, where he was stricken.

Tax Ruling May Lead to Session of Legislature
(REUTERS DISPATCH)
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—As a result of a decision by Federal Judge Faria, that the city of St. Louis and the State itself have no right to collect capital stock taxes from national banks, a plea for an extra session of the Missouri Legislature likely will be sent to Gov. Baker by city officials here.

The loss to St. Louis, according to Comptroller Neils, will be only $500,000 this year, because the tax has been paid by some banks.

Next year, he estimates, the decrease in city revenue, will total $750,000. While plans for an extra session are being considered, the city is preparing a motion for a new hearing.

NINE DIE IN CRASHES
Two Children Among Victims of Week's Mishap in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 12.—Louis Chaves, 45 years of age, died this morning from injuries suffered yesterday in an automobile wreck, making the ninth person to die from injuries in accidents in this city in one week.

Richard Harkness, 73 years of age, was killed instantly late last evening when struck by an automobile. Two of the nine deaths for the week were due to the victims being struck by locomotives.

In the motor accidents, accounting for the seven deaths, fifteen persons were injured, several seriously. The railway accident took the lives of two children, one a babe of 2 and the other a lad of 15. He has not been identified, although officers believe he is H. A. Ganderup, Ouray, Colo., from markings on his clothing.

Tournament of Roses Director to Enlarge Fete
PASADENA, Oct. 12.—Plans to widen the scope of Pasadena's annual Tournament of Roses and to make this season's New Year's Day celebration the most colorful and elaborate in the annals of the fete were tentatively agreed upon today when the directors of the Tournament of Roses Association and the parade committee held their first meetings of the year.

Malcolm Fraser, director of the Tournament of Roses, is now in Pasadena, working daily on plans for the affair, after having successfully directed the recent California Diamond Jubilee celebration in San Francisco. More cities than ever before are planning to enter floats in the Pasadena parade this winter, he said today.

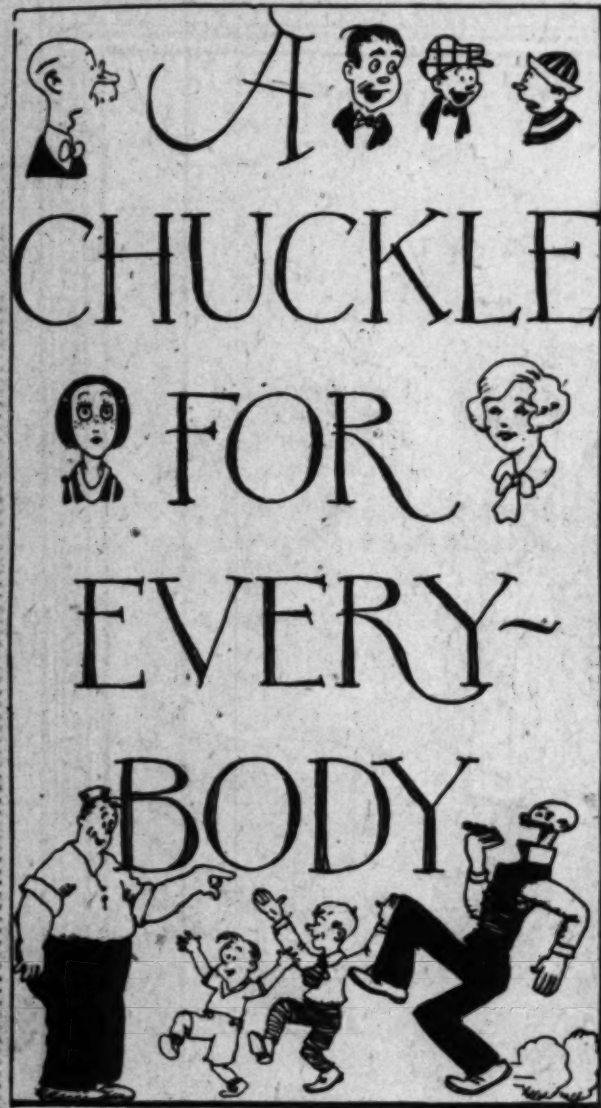

Masons to Open Assembly Today in San Francisco
(REUTERS DISPATCH)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—Visiting members of the California Grand Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, were welcomed to the seventy-sixth annual session in San Francisco by a reception at the Scottish Rite Auditorium tonight.

Arthur D. Layne made the welcoming address and David J. Reese, Worshipful Grand Master, responded. After the opening ceremonies the guests enjoyed a concert in the lodge rooms and dancing in the auditorium.

The Grand Lodge will assemble tomorrow at 10 a.m. at the Masonic Temple. The day will be spent in official ceremonies and will conclude with a dinner and theater party. Wednesday the guests will visit in Alameda county, and Thursday there will be a sightseeing trip about the city. Friday the sessions will close with election of officers.

EVANGELIST SCORES SUNDAY GOLF PLAYERS
(REUTERS DISPATCH)
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—Card players, dancers and Sunday golfers are being flayed by Howard S. Williams, the Mississippi evangelist, in a series of sermons here.

"The man who professes religion and goes to the golf links on the Sabbath is a humbug," he said. "The evolution theory also has come in for its share of denunciation. 'I believe the Bible from start to finish,' Williams told his audience, 'and I want no be-spectacled professor, denying the divinity of Christ, to tell me I came from a monkey or a tadpole.'"

The Sun

The Sun's Commanding Position in the Advertising Field Has Been Won Solely on the Character and Quality of the Newspaper Itself

IN September, for the third consecutive month, The New York Sun published a larger total of net paid advertising by 71,820 lines than any other Evening Newspaper in New York.

In September The Sun carried 1,253,426 lines of advertising, a gain of 113,894 lines over September of last year. This gain in advertising is greater than the September gain of all the other New York Evening newspapers combined.

Moreover, it is a greater gain than the combined gain of all the New York morning newspapers on their weekday issues and it comes within only two hundred lines (200) of beating any one of these morning newspapers with both its weekday and Sunday issues—six days of The Sun against seven days of the morning.

Last-year The Sun carried 13,268,308 lines of advertising and all in six day weeks—no Sunday issues. This year The Sun will show a gain of better than a million lines.

Mere volume of advertising, however, doesn't tell the full story. It doesn't reflect the full meaning of The Sun's very splendid growth in advertising. The full meaning is found in the character and quality of The Sun's advertising considered in connection with the actual lineage gain.

Measuring growth by lineage alone takes no account of character and quality. The newspaper that is careless about the character and quality of the advertising it carries has a wide field to draw upon. A line of advertising is a line of advertising in the count whatever the character.

COPPER MARKET
TONE IMPROVES

Fractional Advances Believed
Turn for Better

Previous Drop Held Prelude to Fresh Buying

Situation Still Regarded as Fundamentally Sound

BY CHARLES F. WILLIAMS
(Editor, The Mining Journal)

The last of the week brought a strengthening in the copper market, the price advancing to 14 1/2 cents a pound. The early part of the week the tone of the market was uncertain and transactions in small volumes at slightly reduced prices. October and November deliveries were quoted at 14 1/2 and 14 3/4 cents, but December copper is commanding a better price. Some authorities characterize the recent weak market as the slump which precedes a buying movement. The advance during the last two days would seem to verify this explanation. The volume of sales during the past week has been approximately the same as the first week of the month and less than normal. The business, however, has been better distributed among the various selling agencies. Consumers are not buying to anticipate future requirements, but only to meet their current. They have learned that they can count on copper in any quantity and at reasonable prices whenever they wish to buy. On the other hand producers have adopted wiser selling tactics, learning the disadvantages to themselves which accompany any forcing of the market.

OPTIMISTIC OUTLOOK

Most fabricators are decidedly optimistic over business prospects for the remainder of the year. Recent orders have not been quite so good as the phenomenal business placed in August, but no complaints are heard, especially from producers of sheet copper and the brass mills. Recent export inquiries have not been so strong. Conditions in England are peculiarly depressed, affecting nearly all industries, so that large buying from that quarter is not anticipated for the immediate future. Kazakhstan copper is proving an upsetting factor in the marketing of copper abroad, as practically the entire output is now sold to Europe. The outcome of present negotiations between American and French governments looking toward a settlement of the debt problem will influence the trend of copper prices, and a satisfactory agreement on debt refunding would undoubtedly influence increased buying of copper.

EXPORT FIGURES

The American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports August exports of refined copper at $4,442 tons. This brings the total of refined copper exported from January to and including August to 364,169 tons for 1925, against a total of 324,635 for the same period in 1924. Germany was by far the heaviest taker of the metal, with England ranking second, France third, and Italy fourth.

Considerable publicity has been given by the newspapers to the question of a tariff on copper, because of a recent statement by Ralph Cameron, United States Senator from Arizona. Senator Cameron declares himself in favor of a 6-cent tariff on copper in order to meet competition.

An official of one of the large copper companies makes the following observations relative to the copper market: "I have talked with large business interests who have just returned from the Continent, and who made independent observations of conditions, and they agree that while many industries in England, France and Germany are considerably below par, electrical manufacturers are prosperous and booking large orders."

"In this country electrification of railroads, the increased use of buses to handle short-haul pas-

POWER FOR THIRTY MILLION

Ballard Declares Hydroelectric Resources Ample for Huge Population; Growth Assured

BY HARRIS E. CROWE

On the authority of R. H. Ballard, vice-president and general manager of the Southern California Edison Company, California can support a population of 30,000,000 people. Coming from an officer of a great power company, this statement is freighted with profound significance, for without the essential of cheap and ample power, agricultural and industrial progress in this semiarid country would never proceed very far. In addressing last week the annual convention of the California Real Estate Association in Fresno, Mr. Ballard produced figures to show the remarkable strides in this State since the introduction of electric power in irrigation. Reclamation projects, windmills, distilleries and gas engines, all contributed to the successful exploitation of the semiarid lands in California, but these devices were only able to conquer a small portion of the 23,000,000 acres of arable land. Development lagged until the application of electrical energy to irrigation came into the foreground.

AGRICULTURE AIDED

Now, so Mr. Ballard stated, approximately 3,000,000 acres of California lands are under electric irrigation, of the 13,000,000 acres under cultivation in the entire State. Nearly 12,000,000 more acres are capable of cultivation, and the power experts are confident that through electric irrigation this development will materialize. And, as the Edison executive told the real-estate convention, the water resources are available with which to manufacture the energy required to maintain a population six times the number of people now in the State.

Nearly as astonishing was his estimate of the present population of the State. Computed on the basis of school enrollment up to the first year, and cross-checked with the new electric meter connections, Mr. Ballard placed the State population in excess of 5,500,000 or nearly 1,000,000 greater than the figure reported by the Census Bureau in the 1925 estimate.

The power companies are not claiming credit for bringing the people to California, but, perhaps, they legitimately claim that it is cheap and ample power that is measurably responsible for keeping them here. Land boomers serve to bring the people, but other agencies besides arable land and men are required for the production of goods. Water is needed to make the land productive, and senior traffic, superpower projects, the automobile, radio, building and many other developments that have widened the opportunities of the people, can all be depended upon to increase the consumption of power.

"The opportunities of this country are so big that future production in all lines is bound to increase, which will call for constantly growing use of power, and the latter spells 'copper consumption.'"

"In a word, there are sound reasons for believing that world consumption of copper in the next few years will take care of a much larger production of copper and at more satisfactory prices to the producers than in the past five years."

This seems to be the consensus of opinion regarding the future of the copper industry, for fundamental conditions were never so sound and a great improvement in market conditions is anticipated.

SURPLUS OF MONEY OVER FOR A TIME

Moody Expects Rates to Slowly Advance Through November at Least

Moody's weekly review of financial conditions in its current issue says, in part:

"Some calling of loans has been reported, and the money market is becoming firmer. The rate of loans to depositors is now almost five points higher than it was in January, and the plethora of capital is over at least for a while."

"Call rates are habitually lower during the second and third weeks of October than during the first week, but time money does not share in this reaction. Interest rates as a whole may be expected to slowly harden through November and perhaps through the first half of December."

"The recent decline in many groups of high-grade bonds evidently is the consequence of competition with the money market rather than lack of demand for bonds. In view of the opportunities which so many investors have to employ new funds as working capital, there is a natural disinclination to buy high-grade low-yield bonds except at some concessions in price."

"As to the stock market, however, general business has not yet become literally inflated, and, therefore, there is nothing in sight thus far to necessitate future liquidation—which in turn means that one cannot yet forecast a real bear movement."

BUSINESS PHILOSOPHY

BY WILLIAM FEATHER

AN ATTRACTIVE office, courteous salesmen, a telephone girl with a smile in her voice, letters written and neatly typed are advertisements just as surely as words painted on a billboard or printed in newspapers.

Every transaction is an advertisement. A satisfied customer comes back for more, which is the cheapest of all ways of getting business.

Every purchase can be turned into an advertisement. A reputation for fairness, honest dealing and prompt payment of bills have carried many a business through a "killing frost."

THE NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY, New York City, Trustee

The following is summarized from a letter from Mr. E. C. Stuckless, President of the Corporation:

Location. The 61 Broadway Building, located in the heart of the financial section of New York City, occupies the entire northwest corner of the intersection of Broadway with Exchange Alley, within one block in depth to Trinity Place. Within a short distance are located the buildings of the Equitable Trust Company of New York, The New York Trust Company, Bankers Trust Company, Standard Oil Company, New York Stock Exchange, United States Sub-Treasury, First National Bank and also the Equitable Building, and Trust Buildings. The building is adequately served by convenient subway, elevated and surface railway transportation and has a direct underground connection with the Wall Street station of the Lexington Avenue line of the Long Island City Company.

Building. The building is a 32-story office and banking building of granite, limestone, concrete, steel and brick fireproof construction and is carefully designed to afford maximum light and to take advantage of its exceptional location facing on three thoroughfares. The building was constructed prior to the enactment of the present New York City Zoning Laws and it is estimated that a new building of the same height, erected in compliance with the present laws, would contain less than 75% of the net rentable area of the present building. The building is equipped with 24 high-speed elevators and is modern in every respect. All electric light, heat and power is furnished from an independent plant within the building.

Security. This loan will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a closed first mortgage on the land and building owned in fee. The plot extends approximately 105.1 feet on Broadway, 202.2 feet on Exchange Alley, 110.9 feet on Trinity Place and 209.0 feet on the north line, comprising a total ground area of over 22,200 square feet. The land has been independently appraised by George R. Read & Co. at $4,900,000; McKim, Mead & White have appraised the building at $11,179,736, making a total appraised value of $16,079,736. The appraisal of the building does not include the valuable vaults and improvements installed by The Chase National Bank, which represent a substantial investment and which become the property of the building in 1934. Based on the above appraisals this loan represents less than a 59.1 per cent mortgage. Title and first insurance will be carried payable to the Trustee.

Earnings. The earnings of the building as furnished by certified public accountants for the year ended August 31, 1925, were as follows:

Gross Earnings	$1,863,942
Operating Expenses, Maintenance, Insurance and Taxes (excluding Federal taxes)	584,906
Balance	$1,279,036
Maximum annual interest charges on this loan	522,500

For the past three years ended August 31, 1925, net earnings have averaged over two times the maximum interest charges on this loan.

Occupancy. The Chase National Bank, The Rockefeller Foundation, Vacuum Oil Company, Laura Spelman Rockefeller Foundation, Allied Chemical & Dye Corporation, Pure Oil Company, American Metals Company, and Columbus Gas & Electric Company are included among the tenants of this building.

The operation of a quarterly sinking fund, beginning April 1, 1926, through purchase in the open market or through retirement by lot at the then call price, will reduce this loan to less than $3,000,000 at maturity, or an amount substantially less than the present value of the land alone.

Ownership. This property is to be acquired by the Broadway Exchange Corporation, the entire stock of which is owned by the Anahua Realty Corporation of which Mr. August Heckscher is President. Among the other properties controlled by the Anahua Realty Corporation are: the Heckscher Building, southwest corner 57th Street and Fifth Avenue, and such prominent buildings in the Grand Central zone as the Canadian Pacific Building, Equitable Trust Building, Vanderbilt Concourse Building, No. 50 East 42nd Street Building; in the financial district, Exchange Place Building at No. 43 Exchange Place. The 61 Broadway Building will be under the management of Charles F. Noyes Company.

This loan is offered when, as, and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of counsel, Messrs. Cushman, Cutler and Parker for the bankers and, Messrs. Frank, Fisk and Taylor for the corporation.

Subscriptions made will be opened October 13, 1925, at 9:00 a.m., Grand Central Station, at the office of P. W. Chapman & Co., Inc., syndicate managers, 118 S. La Salle Street, Chicago, and closed at their discretion.

OIL NEWS

BY ROBERT J. FRITHCHARD

Predicting the future rate of petroleum production is one of the riskiest forms of indoor sport. It is indulged in on rare occasions by a few of the more daring spirits in statistical circles, and generally they are wrong. This is not because the prophets are not fully acquainted with all available factors in the production situation, but because several of the essential factors are absolutely unavailable. No power on earth can tell when a vagrant wildcat will drill in a new field, and upset all the prophecies of the experts. One daring forecaster ventured to say in January, 1925, that production of California in January, 1926, would be about 550,000 barrels. The year still has three months to run, but to bring this prophecy true California will have to lose 100,000 barrels a day in the next three months.

But the exigencies of the oil business require that occasionally some estimate of future production be made, and on these occasions, the statistical sharp, reading softly, and with plenty of qualifying reservations, venture a guess on the subject.

The most recent of these estimates, made by a statistician who has established a reputation as a high authority in such matters, figures that in March, 1924, California will be down to about 550,000 barrels of oil a day. This prediction is based on the probable decline of present producing fields, the probable development of fields not yet at their peak, and the probable curtailment of production in fields where this is possible. Discovery of new fields, the most important factor in determining future output, is left out of the calculation, because it cannot be figured.

According to this authority, California production, which now is about 650,000 barrels a day, will decrease at approximately the following rate:

November 625,000 barrels
December 620,000 barrels
January 610,000 barrels
February 605,000 barrels
March 600,000 barrels

These estimates presume that there will be no substantial output at Seal Beach for at least six months, that there will be no exploitation of a deep sand at Dominguez in that time, that Rosencrans and the Ventura fields will hold at approximately their present output, and that the new field at Huntington Beach and Torrance, Huntington Beach and Torrance, will continue to slow decline that has characterized their production for the last year.

Two New Wells
The Shell company has two new wells on its production list in the southern end of the Torrance field, each well making approximately seventy-five barrels a day. Redondo No. 8 and Torrance No. 8 are the new wells, both finished at 3600 feet, and both pumping at approximately the same rate.

Four New Wells
The Standard Oil Company is starting three new wells in the Montebello field on its Baldwin and Temple leases, which have been consistent producers for many years. These are the Baldwin No. 44 and No. 45, and the Temple No. 16.

The St. Helens Petroleum Corporation, one of the leading Montebello producers, is also starting another well in this field. Derrick is up for Monterey No. 10, and drilling will start immediately.

Three Wet Wells
The Union Oil Company almost finished three new wells in the Rosencrans and Dominguez fields yesterday, the only thing preventing the completions being a superabundance of water. The cut in the yield of the three wells ranged from 22 per cent to 24 per cent.

In the Calender No. 8 at Dominguez, the Union got about 400 barrels a day from a depth of 4370 feet. The well is flowing into the sump, the water content being 10 per cent, and the gravity less than 20 deg.

The Howard Park No. 17 at Rosencrans, began flowing into the sump yesterday at the rate of about 300 barrels a day from a depth of 4627 feet. The fluid was flowing into the sump yesterday, and tested about 32 deg. gravity, and about 22 per cent water.

Howard Park No. 7, offsetting the Trust lease, began flowing into the sump yesterday at the rate of 300 barrels a day, of which 74.2 per cent was water, with an additional 10 per cent of emulsion and mud, making the total cut 84.2 per cent. Depth of this well is 5629 feet. The water is salty.

Economic Service Believes Next Six Months to Be Opportune

Forecast of a gradual increase in buying during the next six months and the belief that appropriations for sales and advertising campaigns will be well spent, are found in the monthly review of business, issued by the Brookline Economic Service, which says:

"Looked at from every angle, business is in a fundamentally sound condition; business in foreign countries is improving, conditions in industrial centers are generally satisfactory, the farmer is in a very much stronger position.

"We look for a gradual decrease in sales resistance for the next six months, and believe that appropriations for sales and advertising campaigns in this period will be well spent."

LONDON, Oct. 12.—International obligations remained firm today, sales of the Hungarian loan having been made at 93-4, and of the Austrian issue at 93-1-4.

Stocks were dull on the uncertainty of money conditions arising in part from continued dullness in sterling exchange. Railway issues showed little movement in either direction.

Rubber shares were dull on the official proposal to increase the exportable rubber percentage to 95 per cent from November, but it is understood that only a few estates are able to produce the commodity in an amount greater than 85 per cent standard, owing to labor conditions among other things.

Courtaulds still is heavily bought on your side and opened at 15-18. Tobacco stocks were strong.

The above statement reflecting the earnings for the month of August is greater than the dividend requirements for the same period on the outstanding preferred stock, leaving a surplus for the common.

Every indication points to even greater earnings for the future.

The reason for the publication of this statement is to correct misapprehension respecting the status of your corporation, and to set at rest rumors reflecting upon your corporation made for the specific purpose of inducing stockholders to sell their securities.

On September 8th, when Julian Preferred was selling at $6.00 per share, I advised you that plenty of money could be made in the purchase of this security.

Again, on October 8th, when the stock was selling at $19.00 a share, I advised you that you would not go wrong in buying it at that price, as the proper market position of Julian Petroleum Corporation Preferred stock is in excess of $40.00 per share; and the present momentum should take it far beyond the $30.00 level in a comparatively short time; and that the eastern arrangement contemplated in the listing of the stock on the New York Exchange at a figure considerably in excess of $30.00 per share.

At 3 P.M. Friday, when this is being dictated, the stock exchange announced the turn-over for the day approximately 21,500 shares at or above $22.00 per share at a cash market value of almost ONE-HALF MILLION DOLLARS.

Eastern associates and myself availed ourselves of the information reflected by the facts as submitted from time to time, and purchased heavily of Julian Petroleum stock, and so that the records will be clear, I shall continue to publish at intervals, happenings affecting the value of your securities, and the STORY HAS JUST STARTED.

Respectfully submitted,

EIGHT LOCAL SINGERS GET OPERA PRIZE

Best of Chorus Awarded
$1000 in First Boies to City's Music Lovers

"AN ARMY of artists unsurpassed by any opera company in the United States," wrote one critic, appeared last night in Montezuma's "Amore del Tre Re." But when the curtain fell on the apparently dead Claudia Muzio and the apparently dying Fernando Anselmo and Riccardo Stracciari, with poor Marcel Journet standing beside their operatically dead bodies apparently blind, who appeared on the stage of the Olympic Auditorium to receive the plaudits of 6000 Angelenos?

The prize was awarded to the eight local singers who had won the first prize in the singing contest held by the City of Los Angeles last year. The prize was awarded to the eight local singers who had won the first prize in the singing contest held by the City of Los Angeles last year.

POLICE CAR HITS TRAFFIC OFFICER

Broken Ribs "Suffered in Corner Crash"

Machine Answering Call to Quell Fight

Witnesses Assert Auto Exceeding Limit

A police automobile speeding to the scene of a reported disturbance, struck and critically injured Traffic Officer Theodore N. Stewart at his post at Pico Boulevard and Western avenue last night. Stewart suffered several fractured ribs and possible internal injuries.

The police car was on its way to the 900 block in Fourth avenue in response to a report to the Wilshire station that a fight was in progress. It was driven by Patrolman Oscar Lide, with Detective Bain and another officer as passengers.

According to witnesses, the car was making forty-five to fifty-five miles an hour on Pico Boulevard. Traffic Officer Stewart, who had been working to clear a path for the speeding car, was dragged his platform from his place at the intersection when he struck.

HURLED HUNDRED FEET Stewart, according to bystanders, was hurled more than 100 feet. He was hurled to the receiving hospital, where Police Surgeon Dorn said that although his injuries were extremely serious, he had a chance for recovery.

Detective Lieutenant Jarvis and Craig were detailed to investigate the accident. Capt. Sweeney of the transportation division recently issued orders that all police cars must be under control at crossings.

Stewart was later removed to the White Memorial Hospital. Upon recovering consciousness, he laid the accident to his own carelessness in taking his platform out of the way of the police car.

REVOLVER BENT The barrel of his revolver was bent almost into a semi-circle. It was reported to the investigating officers that the rear end of the police car had struck Stewart, the car slowing around when the driver jammed on the brake.

A large crowd saw Stewart injured. He is one of the most popular members of the traffic squad, being noted for his good humor in directing traffic. He is 43 years of age and lives at 214 East Sixteenth street.

The automobile which struck him was driven by L. Nash, 579 Gladys street.

BOY WIZARD AT MENTAL ARITHMETIC

Startles Class at University by Extracting Cube Root

A 9-YEAR-OLD boy with a head full of figures made mathematical sharks at the University of Southern California sit up and take notice yesterday. Before Prof. Willett's college algebra class of about 100, the boy, Jimmy Barrett, extracted cube roots with all the ease and conchance of a campus slick making a date for Saturday night.

Prof. Steed volunteered the information to a reporter that it takes the ordinary mathematical shark half an hour or more of hard figuring to get the cube root out of 5,377,771,088. Jimmy's father, Urbane L. Barrett, a Los Angeles attorney, explained that Jimmy's ability to extract cube root is due to a short-cut method discovered by him and taught to his boy during the last year.

"It's of no particular value to the world except as an entertaining feature or I'd let the secret be known," Mr. Barrett said. Jimmy said he is in the B4 class in Union-avenue school. "I like arithmetic best," he said, "and I get A about all the time in it. I get along all right in spelling too."

"Is this cube root any good in figuring out how to lick some other kid?" some one asked Jimmy. "Now he grinned. 'What're you going to do when you grow up?' 'I haven't figured that out yet.'"

PREPARE FOR TOURIST RUSH

Railroads Add New Equipment as Indications Point Toward Heavy Winter Season

Indications of an excellent tourist season in Southern California were reported yesterday to F. L. S. Harman, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, in a communication signed by S. S. Robertson, assistant traffic manager of the Union Pacific.

Robertson said he had taken into consideration things which in the past have provided railroads with a fairly accurate basis upon which to estimate prospective passenger traffic and to make provision for adequate equipment.

"Our analysis of the present situation," the rail man said, "has been so encouraging we have made heavy expenditures for new dining cars, observation cars, motive power and other equipment for handling a heavy tourist traffic to California this winter."

The principal factor upon which the rail line based its estimates, Robertson said, was general excellence of business conditions throughout the United States and Canada.

"Business in all lines, including agriculture," Robertson asserted, "has on a sound and healthy basis. This is especially true of regions from which California derives the greater portion of winter tourists."

STEADY RISE OF CITY RECOUNTED

Clerk Dominguez Release Part of History

Area Grows from 28 Square Miles to 411 Now

Lands Now Worth Millions Granted in Old Days

How the city of Los Angeles has grown in less than sixty years from a city of twenty-eight square miles to its area today of 411 square miles is set forth in a report made public yesterday by City Clerk Dominguez. The report is the first result of a complete history of city lands now being prepared by the City Clerk for the official records of Los Angeles. He has working under his direction Arthur Morris, the newly appointed land agent of the City Clerk's office. The position was created by the city charter.

While the records show that the city of Los Angeles was incorporated under the act of the California Legislature on March 11, 1850, it was not until October 26, 1852, that the City Clerk's report shows that the city filed its claim with the United States Land Commissioner for a patent formally fixing the boundaries of the city, and this patent was granted, signed by President Andrew Johnson on August 1, 1865, and accepted by the City Council of Los Angeles.

PIAZA IN CENTER The patent set aside as the city of Los Angeles an area of four square leagues or twenty-five square miles. This area was determined by measuring one league in each direction from the Plaza, due north, east, south and west, and measuring two leagues on each side of the square. The area of the original city of Los Angeles, given in terms of the present street layout, was bounded by Flower street on the west, Twelfth street on the south, Indiana street on the east, and Santa Monica Boulevard on the north, which would be near Santa Monica Boulevard. This tract followed the lines of the first survey of Los Angeles, made in 1849 by Lieut. E. O. C. Ord of the United States Army engineers.

Despite the fact that the first city of Los Angeles measured four square miles, in actual fact that city consisted of a few adobe buildings located around the Plaza while the remainder of the area was farm land. But the area of the city of Los Angeles, as having been declared by the United States patent, then in process of being declared legal by the United States Supreme Court, the City Council in 1854 adopted an ordinance releasing the city's title to lands within the patent area to the respective occupants for twelve years had been in undisturbed possession. In this manner the Mayor was able to convey to these owners title to the land which now is the central part of the city and valued today at many millions of dollars. Tract of thirty-five acres each also were given to persons who would live on these tracts and farm them.

From this original city annexations have been made from time to time, the last being the consolidation of Venice. The first annexation was in 1859, when a small area on the north was annexed to make the city form an exact square.

PUEBLO AT START The report of City Clerk Dominguez, who is himself a native of Los Angeles and has taken part in the growth of the city from a village, starts with the original pueblo and says:

"The pueblo of Los Angeles is one of the oldest in the State of California, and the oldest having been founded by royal enactment as early as the year 1781, and thereby acquiring a title recognized and sustained by the United States in its treaty with Mexico in 1848."

"It formed a prefecture under the name of Los Angeles, and some time after the year 1813, and the title as acquired have been recognized by the Prefect at dates so ancient that the record of them is lost and the fact only known by the tradition of the possessors."

"We find the Ayuntamiento (City Council) and the municipal officers acting as making grants of land as early as 1813, and the titles as acquired have been recognized by the Prefect at dates so ancient that the record of them is lost and the fact only known by the tradition of the possessors."

R. DOHENY, our oil magnate, is apparently going to own a theater.

The press agent reports that he is now buying plays from authors.

Henry Ford, the magnate of many things, is reported to be preparing to buy into the movies as a producer.

Much grief awaits them.

RICH, BUT SAD

I have known of many rich men who have taken a chance on the show business.

I can't think of a single one who did not retire sadder and wiser.

WELL, HERE'S WHY

No doubt, the trouble lies in this fact:

They are mostly strong men of strong opinions; they are accustomed to riding over obstacles.

The successful showman, on the other hand, is one who tries to anticipate the opinions of the public. He is like a waiter who brings a tray of French pastry to a patron. He must accept the verdict without argument. He can't have opinions.

A GAMBLER'S JOB

The show business is a gamble from start to finish.

There is no possible way to figure it; no way to know you are on the right road.

Motion pictures sometimes look like a triumph in the projecting-room, and " flop" before an audience.

Motion pictures that have been dragged out shame-facedly with despair by the producers have made enormous successes.

ABIE'S IRISH ROSE

Every one knows the history of "Abie's Irish Rose."

It was put on to fill a gap in a stock company program in Los Angeles. Then, after it had scored an unexpected success here, Ann Nichols' partners in New York only laughed at her frantic telegrams begging for a few thousand dollars to try it in New York.

It has become the most successful play in the history of America.

ALSO "LIGHTNIN'"

The same was true of "Lightnin'." Frank Bacon told me he played the same character for twenty-five years all over the country. Nobody would give him a look-in.

For some unaccountable reason, New York suddenly took a notion to it, and it played three years to "standing-room only."

HOW "PEG" STARTED

"Peg o' my Heart" had almost the same history.

Laurette Taylor told me that the New York managers hooted at the thing when it was offered to them. She said she and her husband finally put it on at the old Burbank Theater in Los Angeles, because they just had to have something to fill in a week.

No one was as astonished as she when it made one of the great triumphs of theater history.

"And," she added ruefully, "I still hate the damn thing."

NO REASON WHY

Said an old showman:

"There is no reason why the public likes a play, or no reason why it doesn't. It just does, or it doesn't."

FALLING WALL BREAKS AGED WORKER'S LEGS

Charles H. Gordon, 74 years of age, suffered fractures of both legs when a section of a cement wall fell on him while he was doing excavation work at Forty-ninth street and Compton avenue yesterday. He was taken to the General Hospital where his condition was said to be critical because of his advanced age. Gordon lives at 1652 East Forty-ninth street.

HOTEL OPENS THURSDAY

Invitations were issued yesterday for the formal opening and inspection Thursday at 8 p.m. of the new 200-room Hollywood Plaza Hotel at 437 Vine street. The opening will be celebrated with a dinner and a dance. The building is of Tudor-Spanish architecture. Two Spanish patios complete the exterior beauty of the building which has a frontage of 100 feet on Vine street.

ILLINOIS RALLY TOMORROW

President Brubaker of the Loy-al Illinois announces the opening rally tomorrow evening at Music-Arts Hall, 231 South Broadway, features of which will be musical and literary numbers, county roll call, community singing and dancing, with prizes given. A small admission fee will be charged.

OPERA IN BRILLIANT FINALE

"L'Amore" and Kosloff Dance Fantasy Share Honors in Closing Bill of Splendid Season

A gala throng of music lovers witnessed the close of the engagement of the California Grand Opera Company last night at Olympic Auditorium. The final productions were the sombre and emotional "L'Amore del Tre Re," by Italo Montemezzi, followed by "The Romance of the Infanta," a new dance fantasy staged under the direction of Theodore Kosloff.

The contrast between these two offerings served to lend interest to the culmination of the exceptional and generally superior season of musical entertainment which the California Grand Opera Company has sponsored.

"L'Amore del Tre Re" has not been heard here so frequently that its allure of novelty has been exhausted. It is well rated as a work of sovereign beauty—indeed, one of the finest that has been composed in Italy in recent years, and one might say, even one of the best of all modern works in the quality of its musical selection.

The "Romance of the Infanta" is a brilliant, terpsichorean, price, which is enriched with both the picturesque and fire linked with a Spanish mood, and a manifest revelation of the creative ability of Mr. Kosloff, and the skill, proficiency and the art of his dancers.

Goodcell Not Worried Over Young's Race

Rex B. Goodcell, Collector of Internal Revenue, when interviewed yesterday regarding the announcement of the candidacy of Leonard Young for Governor, said:

"The announcement of Mr. Young's race was a surprise and it will make no change in our plans. We are going through formal announcement of my candidacy will be made later on."

PLAN PHONE EXHIBITION Officials of the Southern California Telephone Company will give an exhibition of the new system commonly called "the message rate type of service" at the luncheon program tomorrow noon at the Billmore under the auspices of the Commercial Board of Los Angeles. H. C. Lauderbach will be chairman of the meeting. All business men are invited.

WOMAN JAILED IN POSTAL THEFT CASE

THE SINNER'S SONNET

BY E. D. CAHN

(Copyright by E. D. Cahn, 1925)

When I am in the city I long for the peace
Of the country. When in the country I would fain
Return to urban delights. When at sea I think
Of the shady forest and would rather be beneath
The trees than tossing on the waves I sighed for
On the shore. Yes, it's a fact, when I am in I wish
I were out; when I am abroad among men my thoughts
Return to my den and I vow when I get back I'll never Leave home again. But the far field is always the fairest and the restless bug is always biting me.
 Yet I am not fickle. Notwithstanding that I admit
 To a rather tramping instinct, I am not a hobo.
 I am just one more victim of the wanderlust and I've Just got to go or bust.

CACHED LOOT IN ROBBERY FOUND

Police Recover Large Part of $500,000 Plunder

Fourth Suspect Arrested in Mail Truck Hold-up

Two Women Are Hunted as Members of Gang

All members of the bandit gang that last Thursday night robbed a United States mail truck of approximately $500,000 are in jail and all but $9000 of the loot has been recovered and returned to the postoffice. It was announced late last night by Asst. Capt. Ray Cato, in charge of the police burglary squad. Six asserted bandits were under arrest, the last one of them being placed in custody late yesterday.

Coincidentally with the recovery of a large portion of the $500,000 loot taken in the robbery of the United States mail truck last Thursday night police and postal inspectors announced last night that a fourth suspected member of the bandit gang has been captured and that the capture of the two women members of the gang is expected hourly. Federal officers in a northern city expect to close in at any time on the last one of the seven bandits who held up and looted the truck.

The fourth suspect to be arrested yesterday was taken from an eastbound train at a midwestern city. The authorities refused to divulge the name of the suspect or the town in which he was arrested. He will be brought to Los Angeles shortly.

FOUND IN BARN
The loot recovered yesterday was found buried under a barn in a sparsely settled district just outside the city limits. Guns and ammunition were found hidden on the second floor of the barn.

The recovered loot consisted mostly of registered bonds and other securities that made up part of the valuable shipment of mail taken by the bandits. While the authorities refused to say just how much the recovered securities amounted to, they declared "it makes up a good chunk of what was stolen."

PLUNDER ESTIMATE
The $500,000 estimate of the plunder, the highest yet made, was given out by postal inspectors. The estimate grew as reports of large shipments, at first thought to have escaped the robbers, continued to come in. It will take some days, however, for postal inspectors to arrive at an exact figure for the whole, as each of the shippers who lost a package must be consulted.

Of the plunder nearly all was in stocks and bonds, many of them registered. The currency lost is said to be about $20,000, some of which Assistant Captain of Detectives Cato hopes to recover from a safety-deposit box in a branch bank. The box was not opened yesterday, due to the holiday. A small amount of valuables has been recovered from the three suspects under arrest. It was said. A quantity of jewelry was contained in the "registered mail" stolen, although its total value as yet is unknown.

Film Authoress Seeks New Field

Elinor Glyn
Writer leaves Metro to sell stories where she wishes.

DIFFER ON WHY SHE QUIT

Disagreement Over Filming of Elinor Glyn Stories Asserted by Manager, Denied by Studio

Did a disagreement over the picture of Mrs. Elinor Glyn's stories for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, cause the authoress to sever her connections of more than two years standing with the Culver City organization? Irving G. Thalberg, associate production manager of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, yesterday said "no—her contract had expired."

John Wynn, manager for Mrs. Glyn, said "Yes—that is one of the reasons that forced a decision from Mrs. Glyn to enter the independent field."

Recently Mrs. Glyn announced that she had severed her connection with M-G-M in an "almost amicable spirit" and that for the future she prefers to be quite independent and able to sell her stories where she wishes.

Summers in Hollywood motion-picture circles that the severance had been precipitated by a clash over the holding of the directorial reins of her pictures, however, were denied by both Mr. Thalberg and Mr. Wynn.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Wynn stated, Mrs. Glyn does not care whether she actually directs her story or not—as long as the industry of her story is preserved. Mrs. Glyn, however, has always insisted upon one thing—that her story, as evolved by her, must be followed absolutely.

And Mr. Wynn admitted that Mrs. Glyn had not been satisfied with the way her stories had been handled in the filming. "There were certain conflicts over such things as the box-office angle," Mr. Wynn declared. "Other considerations, such as money and guarantees also entered into the field. Mrs. Glyn always had a declared the judges, Marola, conductor, and Pietro Cimino, Giuseppe Papi, Giacomo Spadoni and Mons. Laurera, assistant conductors. Whereof the $1000 was fairly and evenly distributed, and each of the eight youthful songsters has just that much more financial aid in his or her vocal studies.

It was a big moment in their eight lives—that moment last night when they stood before the curtain bowing in the face of a thunder of applause from the people of their city. It was a delightful moment in the lives of members of the audience—but perhaps the audience was not the only ones who enjoyed the more the tests held yesterday morning on which the awards were based.

For the tests produced arias from practically every known opera, the rules of the contest requiring that each entrant sing from memory an aria in French, Italian, or German. Forty contestants sang, and eight emerged in glory, triumphant each in the role of a "principal soloist."

Mrs. Aber sang her way into the finals with "Ritorna Vincitor" from "Aida," Miss Hubbel with "Una voce poco fa" from the "Barber of Seville," Miss Demetris, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," Miss Aldrich, "Vissi d'arte" from "La Tosca," "Center," "Ah, rendimi," from "Mirena," Henry Cantor, "the gelida manina," from "La Boheme," Edmonds, "Celeste Aida," from "Aida," while Johnson poured out his plea to the judges, the glorious, heart-lifting prologue from "Pagliacci."

OATH REFUSED, SO GUN USED

Wife Avers Husband Shot at Her as She Failed to Deny Charges

When Mrs. Margaret Mahan would not swear on a Bible that she had not had another man in her home, Thomas Mahan got his gun, chased her and shot at her, she told Judge Gates.

"And he is a dead shot," Mrs. Mahan declared. "There are two things I would like to know about this," remarked Judge Gates. "First, why you would not swear there was not a man in the house, and second, why your husband failed to hit you if he is a dead shot."

"Well, Judge," Mrs. Mahan replied, "I wouldn't swear on a Bible because I did not think it necessary. He failed to hit me because he had been drinking. But he scared me to death."

So Judge Gates gave her a divorce.

SUSPENDED DRY AGENTS FACE TRIAL

Conspiracy for Violation of Volstead Act Charged to Former Guardians

Trial of P. D. Cummings, suspended Federal dry agent, and W. A. Outcalt, former Long Beach policeman, yesterday was set by Federal Judge James for the 21st inst. Both men are at liberty under $5000 bonds on charges of conspiring to violate the Volstead Act.

Both men are at liberty under $5000 bonds on charges of conspiring to violate the Volstead Act. Cummings is charged with having acted as a go-between for the former star and his contract with that organization.

Miss Minter declared that financial affairs concerned in the suit are so complicated because of a multiplicity of individual items involved.

TEACHER OF DRAMA SUE FOR FAILURE

Disappointed Aspirant for Theatrical Honors Asks Cancellation of Fee

Declaring Frank C. Egan, local theatrical producer and owner of the Egan School of Drama, had failed to secure her a position worthy of her talent at an agreed salary, following her completion of a course of instruction at the school, Myrtle Girt Shepherd has filed suit in Superior Court to cancel a note and mortgage she declared she executed in Egan's favor to pay her tuition fees.

According to the complaint, the note for $2500, was executed in 1923, by which she agreed to be payable within three years. Miss Shepherd stated she entered a contract with Egan in September, 1923, by which he agreed to secure her a position at the close of her instruction at a salary of not less than $50 a week.

March 27, last, Miss Shepherd advised Egan that she wished to cancel the note and mortgage and she performed other work and service in settlement of her obligations. She declared Egan has failed to have the mortgage record cancelled.

Proposes Using Bed of River for Plane Landings

For years and years, Los Angeles citizens have gazed upon the dry bed of the Los Angeles River and devised ways and means for converting this river bed into something useful. The railroads hoped to use it for railroad tracks. Contractors have from time to time tried to secure rights to excavate and there for sale to the public. Engineers have suggested that the bed of the river be converted into a highway. The city has proposed that the river bed be set aside and improved as a landing place for airplanes.

The councilman said that stations could be established there for landings by government mail planes, commercial express and passenger carriers. Control of the river bed rests with the City Council.

CITY HOSPITAL MAY MOVE

Plans Drawn for Inclusion of Emergency Ward in New Police Substation on Pico Street

The long-needed new Receiving Hospital may be located in the new police substation to be built near Pico and Georgia street, according to an announcement made yesterday at the City Hall. Plans for the building are being prepared by City Construction Superintendent Brittan.

Under the police bond issue of $1,600,000 authorized last year, nine of these substations were to be built. The lot for the one on Georgia street is expected to be large enough for the new Receiving Hospital. The building at First and Hill streets long used for the hospital is entirely inadequate, Police Surgeon Goodrich has pointed out to the City Council many times. With the location of the hospital outside of the downtown congested district, police department officials believe that much time now lost by the ambulances in driving through crowded streets will be saved.

The lot now being purchased will have a frontage of 100 feet

Daughter Asks Accounting of $1,000,000 Fund

Filing Will Pave Way for Trial of Complaint

Paving the way for a court hearing of the case, Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, also known as Pearl Miles Shelby, is scheduled to file an answer in Superior Court this week to the suit brought against her by her daughter, Mary Miles Minter, a former film star, for an accounting of more than $1,000,000. Mrs. Minter declared that her mother received as her guardian during the year 1924, the year Minter started in motion pictures.

According to Miss Minter's amended complaint, her mother received in excess of $250,000 as the result of Miss Minter's work with the old American Film Company and approximately $800,000 from the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation for services performed by the former star under her contract with that organization.

Mrs. Shelby, according to Miss Minter, has admitted receiving the money and has not denied responsibility but has failed to make an accounting to her daughter. Miss Minter declared that financial affairs concerned in the suit are so complicated because of a multiplicity of individual items involved.

With her diary in hand, Mrs. Lena Douglas expects to come in to court, in her turn, and prove to the judge out of the book, the things she charges against her husband, Charles Douglas, according to her suit for divorce, on file in the office of the County Clerk.

It was after he had formed the habit of staying out nights without explanation that she started keeping the diary, she related. Set forth in detail are the alleged complaints and goings of Douglas, according to the little book, excerpts from which have been quoted in the complaint, the nights he was away from home.

DOLLAR USURPS COURTESY

Returned Angeleno Says Europe Has Lost Ability in Desire for American Tourists' Money

European courtesy has suffered serious deterioration since the World War, according to "Lady Bob" Montgomery, well-known Los Angeles woman, who arrived at the Biltmore yesterday after a five months' tour in Europe.

"This was my twentieth trip across the ocean," said Lady Bob. "Time was that the courteous treatment of visitors for which the Europeans were known was one of the pleasant features of a sojourn among them. But this is true no longer."

THE ALMIGHTY DOLLAR

"Little consideration is shown the American traveler today, especially in Germany and France. What seems to be uppermost in the minds of everybody in these two countries is to get the American tourist's money, all of it, if possible, or at least as much as possible. Prices on everything sold tourists have increased at least 50 per cent."

Lady Bob went to Europe to tour Southern Europe and Northern Africa by airplane.

"The Moroccan war put a crimp in my plans so far as Africa was concerned, however," she explained.

PIE MACHINE COMPANY IN QUIZ MESH

Federal Agents Will End Book Auditing Within Next Two Months

An audit of the records of the Jeffries Automatic Service Company, started last week by H. G. Matheny, expert accountant for the Department of Justice, will be completed within two months. It was announced yesterday by H. L. Arterberry, special assistant to the Attorney-General.

If sufficient evidence is obtained, the matter will be presented to the Federal grand jury by J. George O'Hannesian, assistant United States Attorney, in charge of the government's legal activity. A cursory examination of the company's affairs was conducted by C. E. Webster, postal inspector.

As a sequel to an investigation of the government's inquiry, the Leaseholders Protective Association, 1918 Title Insurance Building, has issued an appeal to more than 8000 holders of leases on pie and hand-cranked machines throughout the nation for an initial contribution of $5 each with which to form a fund of $40,000 and force an accounting of leaseholders' money from the organization.

The request for funds was signed by Dr. Paul J. Dorosh, Valdaiah Olcott Blackford, Lucille Ranshaw, Jennie Olcott, Iona H. Knapp, Annie Oliver and M. A. Moran, the executive committee.

the grantees and their grantees since that time. "It is to be regretted that more of these grants were not recorded. The holders of them seem to have been satisfied with their titles, entered into possession, took very little care of their paper muniments, and in too many instances allowed them to be lost or destroyed. Thus it happens that to some of the most valuable properties in the city the only proof of the original source of title consists of a few fragmentary memoranda as happens to be found in those of the municipal records that yet remain."

THE HIGHER THE FEWER
 Nowadays a bride goes away with more dresses and less clothes than mother did.

POLICE OFFICERS
 Quite frequently in cases in which the police does not seek the man the officers have to later on.

WEEK SPIRITS
 There are not so many happy mediums in the country since it has been forbidden to summon any spirits containing a kick of higher than half of 1 per cent.

MANY DOUBLOONS
 The world-series gate receipts are enough to make Capt. Kidd roll over in his grave and groan with envy of the chances these modern Pirates have.

SAVE THE MONEY
 The statistician says that it costs $2200 to catch, prosecute and punish the average criminal in New Jersey. Possibly that is why they let so many of them get away.

OUR OWN KEATHEN
 Answers to a questionnaire circulated at the University of California indicate that two-thirds of the students there do not attend church. Why send missionaries to China?

NO SUCH ANIMAL
 It is complained that there are no fairy tales in America. But who is complaining? Many wives assert that their husbands are full of them, but they decline to believe in fairies.

STAND FOR IT
 An English woman declares that American men want to kiss every pretty woman they meet. The Americans are not going to write under the charge whether it be slanderous or not.

THERE'S THE RUB
 They can say what they want to about face paint, but it's a great encouragement of propriety. A modern girl can't take half the chances with her complexion that mother and grandmother did.

IN SPITE OF JAZZ
 The moral reformers insist that profanity is on the wane. There is not as much swearing in the land as there was a few years back. This is the first kind word the youngsters have had for quite a while.

DOESN'T FILM
 Anyhow, Mayor Cryer could never make a lot of money in the movies—that is, if he kept in front of the camera all the time. It must be admitted that Boyle Workman does a lot better under the Kilgus.

SHEDDING INK
 The Republican candidate for Mayor of New York makes fountain pens and the Tammany nominee writes notes. It is a pity that they cannot form a combination of some sort. Their team-work should be immense. Anyhow, it should be a relief to see them throwing ink instead of mud.

FRETFUL SPEECH
 Preachers of many creeds urge action that will make war impossible, yet the sects do not hesitate to make war upon one another. It is true that they fight with words, but words start most wars. What is desired is more practice along the lines of "Do unto others, but let others alone."

THE WOMAN GRIEVES
 In an Illinois court a woman was awarded punitive damages from her delinquent sweetheart because she grieved so when her lover married another that she lost twenty-two pounds of flesh. The court is full of dames who would give a thousand bucks to drop that many pounds, yet here is one who reaps money for her shrinkage. It does seem funny—especially so as the complainant in this case is still of the buxom type. Jurors are funny animals.

THE FARMER'S CROPS
 In connection with the marketing problems of the farmer Col. Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, suggests the possibility of having a national farm commission after the manner of the Federal reserve banking system. The producers of various crops and commodities would form cooperative associations of their own. When such an organization was formed the farm board should have authority to license it to operate as a corporation. It would be permitted to dispose of its surplus through a central bureau—either storing it to meet future domestic needs or exporting it upon the best terms available for the particular industry which was represented, the expenses and losses incurred for storage or in export to be borne proportionately by all the producers. Gov. Lowden has been giving most of his time since his retirement from office to the marketing problems of the land. But he is still in personal command of his 4500-acre farm in Northern Illinois, which is one of the finest and best-managed estates in America.

THE FIRST BOOTLEGGERS
 There is no disguising the fact that prohibition enforcement in some parts of the United States has been only partly successful, that public opinion in some districts is against the prohibition law and that the local and Federal officials are compelled to work in these districts under extreme handicaps.

Some who are stupid or inclined to be willful cite these facts and conditions as proof that prohibition enforcement is a failure and argue from this premise that the Eighteenth Amendment should be amended out of the Constitution. They assert that public opinion is against the law and that the law should be repealed.

One has but to turn back the pages of American history, however, to discover that every attempt to curb or limit the manufacture and sale of liquor has been attended by similar opposition, that, in the early days, the regulation of the manufacture and sale of liquor met with still more united and embittered opposition than that encountered by the Eighteenth Amendment.

Under the Confederacy which preceded our present form of government Congress enacted legislation regulating the manufacture of liquor and placing a tax on its production and sale. This law was so vigorously opposed that it threatened for a time to disrupt the Confederacy. In Western Pennsylvania and adjacent territory the opposition took the form of open rebellion. Government agents were mobbed and the boat was made that the law never could be enforced. Details of this opposition are to be found in the narrative of the "Whisky Insurrection." The planters of Pennsylvania and Northern Virginia waxed exasperated over what they termed the "tyranny of the Washington government." They set forth in terms that, with them, were inconceivable that the colonies had joined in a rebellion against England because the English government taxed tea, a beverage almost unknown west of the Alleghenies. They spent their blood and treasure to free themselves from such tyranny; then came the new government that exceeded all known bounds of tyranny by taxing their whisky, by dictating what use the planter should make of his corn and his rye.

The insurrection assumed such a character that the government was forced to send the greater part of the then standing army to put down the revolt. A century later none contested the right of the government to regulate the manufacture and sale of liquor and to derive revenue therefrom. But the old enmity broke forth in certain quarters when the prohibition act was passed. The opposition, however, is trivial in comparison to that which was awakened when the right of a planter to get drunk on his own whisky was denied him.

A prohibition act was not thinkable in the eighteenth century, when the first liquor legislation was passed. At that time the southern planters erected their own distilleries and manufactured their own liquor. Those of more moderate means made or bought little copper stills and made their home brew. Letters written by Washington show that he owned a distillery and supplied whisky to the barrel to his neighbors; and some of the opponents of prohibition point to these as justification for a similar practice now.

But only those hopelessly stupid will draw such conclusions from such a premise. Washington lived two centuries ago. He followed the custom of his times. He was the richest planter in the colonies and he used the products of his plantation as did his neighbors. Washington owned a distillery; but Washington was also one of the leaders in the movement that placed the manufacture and sale of liquor under Federal control. He was not so stupid or so coarse as most of the brewers and distillers of the twentieth century. Were he living at a time when the use of liquor had become a national evil, when excessive use was undermining the health and the morals of all classes, there is but scant doubt that he would have been a leader in the movement to limit the manufacture and sale of alcohol to such quantities as should be needed for medicinal purposes and for use in the arts and sciences.

Washington never advocated violation of the law. Rich and powerful, he never used his money or his influence to embarrass the government. He set to others an example of how to place a lawful limit on personal liberty. He was a God-fearing, law-abiding American citizen. He followed the customs of his times; but he never indulged in an excess of personal liberty.

That Washington at one time owned a distillery is an interesting fact in that it throws additional light on the different customs of the eighteenth and twentieth centuries. It is the abuse of privileges that causes them to be withdrawn. Experience has proved that restrictive liquor laws are as necessary as restrictive traffic laws. None is permitted to do that which may cause injury to others. Such is the justification of traffic laws and liquor laws. The bootleggers of the twentieth century are the successors to the moonshiners of the early years of the republic. Like their prototypes of the eighteenth century, they, too, will pass and government under the law will continue.

OUR EFFICIENT PRESIDENT
 Ever since last March, when a Senate resolution providing for "the establishment of a commission to consider ways and means to lighten the responsibilities of the President" was withdrawn by its sponsor, presumably at the request of President Coolidge, those who had hoped that the resolution would pass and feared dire results because of its failure, have been watching the present occupant of the White House with the feeling that he might become bogged down under the heavy duties of his office. Nothing of the sort has happened, nor is it likely to happen. The President is taking care of himself. At the same time he is showing an official efficiency equal to that of other notable men who have held the position of Chief Executive.

For two successive administrations the American people had seen their Presidents collapse while in office, and it is but natural that they should like to see a lightning of the Presidential load; but in the present case there is nothing to worry about. President Coolidge, though a man of slight physique and subject at times to minor indispositions, has kept his health and has proved the general impression among the people that the office of Chief Executive is "a man-killer" to be false, so far as he is concerned.

Although his words and actions have been impugned at times by his political enemies to an almost unprecedented extent and he has passed through months of tumult in straightening out the awful aftermath of war, including financial problems that would have swamped a man of lesser efficiency, and although he suffered black grief by the sudden death of his well-beloved son, he has shown wonderful self-control and has exhibited no sign of loss of energy or ability to cope with adversity or complexity.

As stated by a writer in Current History, who shows great familiarity with the system by which the President maintains his health and efficiency, "his character fits in comfortably with any disciplinary program." And military practice has disclosed the fact that in disciplined regularity lies the key to the acquisition of the power to accomplish a designed work. What has helped him most, however, has been his remarkable aptitude for governmental administration. The up-to-date business man of high executive ability consults specialists and takes such of their advice as he deems to be pertinent to the case in hand. "The President of the United States," says the writer referred to, "always has at his call innumerable specialists to advise him in the conduct of the business of the government." To these he puts simple, direct questions, and the advisers usually leave as ignorant of his viewpoint as when they arrive.

The President is an early riser. He always has breakfast at 7. Other Presidents, under stress of business, have delayed their breakfast hours, but the steady meal of President Coolidge never is delayed beyond 1 o'clock. In the afternoon he often takes a short nap, which helps to fit him for further duty for the day. Under the pressure drive of callers and handshaking other Presidents have chafed visibly, but President Coolidge accepts it with unvarying placidity. "If he wishes to confer with certain advisers," says this magazine, "he will, he confers with them. If he wishes to rest, he rests, and none dare interfere. He plays no games. His relaxations are walking, reading and doing nothing."

Thus it is seen how, with his administrative capacity, his simplicity and the strict regularity of his daily life, our present Chief Executive is finding pleasure and satisfaction in a post that bore down so heavily upon Presidents Wilson and Harding and how he has been able to make such a fine record in his difficult and tremendously exacting office.

BRAINS
 "Use your brains! That is what science is saying to industry today. Progress is made by devising new methods. The company that thinks it has no problems and goes blindly on in the ways of its fathers, will have to step down to give place to one with laboratory equipment."

This is the dictum of a prophet in business. Arthur D. Little, of a well-known Boston house. "The price of progress is research, which alone assures the security of dividends" are his significant words.

Brains, not ruts, must give direction to business. Everything from oil to poetry is capable of improvement, and the man who injects a new idea will sweep the trend of trade.

Every new thought bends the line of progress in its onward sweep. There is a relativity among ideas as among planets. A new necessary may turn the tide of affairs. No line of life is immutable.

"Success is the premium that nature puts on brains. Laziness and inefficiency become vassals of research."

The man who thinks there is no scientific problem in his business is headed for the

ONE CAN'T BE TOO CAREFUL

When Dempsey was only a lowbrow
 Upstanding and husky and strong,
 His chiefest delight was to sail in and fight
 Whomever might happen along.
 He never awaited a challenge.
 A punch in the nose was enough.
 And when thus attacked no terms he'd exact—
 But do-on the instant—his stuff.

He needed no mammoth arena,
 He never would haughtily wait
 For a sure guarantee of the cash there would be—
 To employ his own words—"In the gate."
 No managers made the arrangements.
 He was able to make them himself—
 And a good sippy punch to the other boy's lunch
 Delighted him far more than the pelf.

Today he's a different Dempsey.
 A man of meticulous mien.
 Baffling his fame and the glorious name
 He has made on the photoplay screen.
 And with him his real condensation
 To risk being knocked for a row,
 And to rashly expose his new made-over nose
 To the blows Mr. Willis may bestow.

Say not he's high-brow and top lofty,
 Say not the applause he's been fed
 For ever so long from the clamoring throng
 Has gone to an unconscious head.
 He'd not be the great Mr. Dempsey
 If his laurels should suddenly fall.
 He isn't possessed of a what's known as "a chest"—
 He merely is prudent—that's all.

Junk heap. Even the way to blacken shoes improves with the years.

Every successful business must have some one up in the watch tower on the lookout for reinforcements as well as enemies. This is the age of the chemist and physicist. The research department is the detector that senses every approach in depths or heights.

Brains as well as tungsten are injected into steel. Indeed, they enter together. Else so Big Bertha would ever shoot into Paris.

New methods are nimble and ever give their dust to the old on the highways. Put on a clean collar, dig the wax out of your ears and when you see a chance, grab it!

COOLIDGE LUCK

Our neighbor, the New York Times, began years before the 1924 Democratic National Convention the advocacy of the nomination of John W. Davis for President. Mr. Davis was nominated. Mr. Coolidge was elected. Today the Times is advocating the nomination of Alfred E. Smith by the Democratic National Convention of 1928. The Coolidge luck remains unimpaired.

The difference between a confirmed loafer and a young scion of the idle rich is a couple of million dollars.

To Save Us From Ourselves

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—(To the Editor of The Times:) It is hard for me to resist the impulse to speed up to fifty miles an hour and to nose through intersections and hall up traffic when I might save time by staving the other fellow the right of way. I have forfeited bail many times and paid quite a few fines. But I didn't mind that, as my income is adequate to pay for these joyous delinquencies.

But a fellow bumped into me this morning, trying to sprint across an intersection and it was his fault. He made me sore. He is another of those birds who don't worry about little fines. But, say, if there was danger of his license being revoked or suspended, would he have taken the chance he did? No, sir, he would not; and, likewise, if I thought that, through some violation of the traffic rules, I was forbidden the use of my car for ninety days or so I would take excellent care to observe those rules.

If it would work with me, why wouldn't it with the other morons?

Quotations in Conflict

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 9.—(To the Editor of The Times:) A recent letter from the Rev. F. M. Larkin replying to Mr. F. C. Finkle quotes the following from Abraham Lincoln:

"Of all moral issues such questions must first find lodgement with the most enlightened souls who stamp them with their approval. In God's own time they will be organized into law and thus woven into the fabric of our institutions. I have here before me a publication among the officers of which appear numerous well-known public and influential men, both in Los Angeles and elsewhere. From this publication I quote the following: 'Prohibition will work great injury to the cause of temperance. It is a species of intemperance within itself, for it goes beyond the bounds of reason, in that it attempts to control a man's appetite by legislation and makes a crime out of things that are not crimes. A prohibition law strikes a blow at the very principles on which our government was founded.'"

Evidently the Rev. Larkin is somewhat confused as to who are the really "enlightened souls" and I would refer him to the first few chapters of his Bible and study again the effects of a prohibition law in the Garden of Eden, which really concerned a moral issue.

To Dare or Not to Dare.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—(To the Editor of The Times:) I see in this morning's paper (October 8) a reply from Rear-Admiral Moffitt to the aviation investigation. To quote him, "There was every reason to believe that the plane could make the flight from San Francisco to Hawaii and have remaining a two-hour supply of gasoline left." "True," he says, "this was not a wide margin, but the naval aviators of the United States have not yet, I am glad to say, reached that point where they are willing to undertake only the sure thing. I sincerely hope that day will never come."

It makes one pause with astonishment that, after all our expenditure of money to safeguard our nation and to create men capable of doing it, a rear-admiral cannot distinguish between common sense and a "willingness not to undertake only the sure thing."

A woman who sent three sons to the war sincerely hopes there is not another man in her service who holds life of so little value as to induct the act that sent five men across the Pacific Ocean with "two hours of gasoline" left, not to speak of possible human suffering, anxiety and the added expense to our government in its days of searching for lost men.

 For the long hour of work that is waiting
 There's supper, there's mending," it sighed.

GREATEST USERS OF SOAP

In the luxurious classic days of ancient Egypt, Greece and Rome, personal hygiene was accomplished by means of rubbing the body with oils and fine sand. After the invention of soap its use for cleansing the flesh gradually grew until now a nation's degree of civilization is gauged by the amount of soap it uses. In the present generation Americans consume more soap than any other people in the world, and the use of cosmetics, perfumes, powders, rouge and bath salts has increased at almost the same rate.

Dayton Manufacturer in Los Angeles Describes How to Soften Water
How time and other minerals that render water hard may be eliminated by means of a process of filtration through green sand to the point where the resulting water is as soft as snow-water was described yesterday by C. E. Burnett, of Dayton, former president of the Dayton Chamber of Commerce and president of the Duro Pump Manufacturing Company of that city.
Mr. Burnett, who arrived yesterday at the Biltmore, is in Los Angeles to look over the ground with a view to the extension of his firm's business here. "The Duro company specializes in domestic water systems and recently has added another specialty in the shape of a filtration machine for hard water."
"Green sand is a species of marl of which extensive deposits are found in New Jersey," said Mr. Burnett. "In the course of certain experiments conducted during the war it was found that the absorbing lime from water filtered through it, reducing the mineral content of the water to zero."
The Dayton manufacturing firm has taken an active part in civil affairs in Dayton and has also made a close study of the relations between capital and labor.
"We believe that in our plant we have solved the problem of keeping our workmen contented and happy," he said. "We have adopted no formal system to achieve this end, but have merely applied certain humanitarian principles. We have not adopted the profit-taking principle but we pay our employees the highest wages of any factory in Dayton. We have no strikes. The efficiency of these methods is evidenced by the fact that while our plant is conducted on the open-shop principle, we have never had a clash with the unions."

CITY WORKERS IN FUND DRIVE

New Efforts Inspired by County Contribution

Santa Barbara Relief to Date, $466,317

Of This Total Southland Gave $285,396

Unwilling to be outdone by the county employees in contributions to the Santa Barbara emergency relief fund, the city employees will start a rally at the City Hall today in an effort to bring the amount of their donations up to the mark set by their county brethren.

The employees of the county have contributed $285,396, while the city employees' contributions, including the check for $443 sent to the Chamber of Commerce headquarters by them yesterday, amounts to $1733. Accompanying yesterday's donation was a note from the manager of the City Hall campaign to the effect that some of his workers had seen the recent account in The Times of the county workers' donation, and it had inspired them to the effort to increase their own contributions, which will start today.

"WHO ASKED RAISA?" GIST OF SUIT

Two of Chorus in Slander Action

WHO asked Raissa what? Aye, there's the rub in one phase of the $25,000 slander suit William Tyroler, director of chorus for the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association, filed against Merle Armitage, association director, last week.

Armitage is accused by Tyroler of having caused the chorus to be informed that Raissa would not sing if Tyroler directed the performance. Armitage said Mrs. Marion Mack, one of the chorus, asked Raissa about it, and when informed by the star that no such attitude had been assumed, Mrs. Mack "raised Ned" in the chorus and something had to be done quickly, so he discharged her.

This from Mrs. Mack: "I did ask Raissa, but I wasn't the only one, and not the first. Mrs. Emilie MacDonald, another of the chorus, asked Raissa first, and if that is why I was told to 'get out,'

THIRD STORE INITIATED BY GUDE'S HERE

Expansion Attributed to Business Growth in City in Twenty-three Years

Deluged with floral gifts from many well-wishing friends, Gude's yesterday formally opened their third store in Los Angeles, at 725 South Broadway. The new establishment comprises four floors and a basement and is declared to be the latest in every phase of footwear and hosiery merchandising. The outgrowth of twenty-three years of successful operations in this city made possible the expansion said W. G. Edwards, manager.

The interior of the new store is stained walnut over a base of red gumwood with the exception of the lower floor which is finished in antique oak with furniture to harmonize. The lower floor is devoted exclusively to men's and boys' footwear and hosiery. As an innovation a club effect is offered in this department. Large upholstered chairs, reading table and an open fireplace being some of the features.

FORESTRY MEN VISITORS HERE

Eastern Executives Study Southland Methods

Inspect Fire Stations and Reforestation Work

Delegates to Convention at Bay City Stop Over

A glimpse of what has been accomplished by Southern California in the way of protection against forest fires and reforestation and an idea of the plans for the future were given three State forestry officials from New York and Maryland yesterday, after their arrival here for a brief tour of inspection.

The guests are C. R. Pettit, superintendent of State forests of New York; William G. Howard, assistant superintendent of State forests, and F. W. Bealey, superintendent of Maryland's State forests.

They arrived here yesterday from San Francisco and Sacramento, where they attended the annual convention of the Association of Foresters, organized in 1929, and shortly after their arrival set out on an automobile tour of the Southland to make a personal inspection of the fire-fighting reforestation methods effected here.

Universal City was visited en route, the foresters from the East having expressed a desire to see motion pictures in the making.

From Universal City the party proceeded to the

OPPOSES DE MILLE PICTURE ROYALTY

Jeannie McPherson

Jeannie McPherson, scenarist for Cecil De Mille, returned yesterday from Atlanta, Ga., where she was the chief witness for De Mille in a suit brought by Mrs. Mattie Thomas Thompson charging appropriation of the idea of "The Ten Commandments" and asking royalties on the picture.

The Federal judge who heard the case in suit preparing his decision, she said, according to Miss McPherson, at least half a dozen persons believed "The Ten Commandments" was their original idea, in addition to the four persons in the contest who were paid for it.

"I wish," said Miss McPherson, "that people might come to believe that more than one person may get the same idea." Hallett Abend, former Los Angeles newspaper man, also testified, and depositions were taken from a number of persons.

Miss McPherson said that she wishes to correct the impression that she will supervise a number of productions for De Mille. She said that she will supervise one picture, "Red Dice," with Rod La Roche.

She said she has no desire to make supervising my general function," she stated. "I will continue writing stories for Mr. De Mille's own production, as heretofore, but will not have anything to do with supervision of these. I am undertaking the supervision of 'Red Dice' at Mr. De Mille's request."

Barrett Kinsling, De Mille publicity director, will return to Los Angeles today.

GRAND JURY QUIZ DUE ON 'WOLF' HERE

Asserted Connection With Brokerage Firm Will be Basis of Inquiry

The county grand jury today will start an investigation of the activities of John W. Worthington, "The Wolf of La Balle street," during his asserted silent partnership with the brokerage firm of Balentine & Co. in Los Angeles, according to announcement made at the District Attorney's office yesterday.

Worthington's connection with the firm, it is said, started when he furnished $25,000 working capital to B. F. Balentine, former Texas oil promoter. At that time Worthington was critically ill in a sanatorium here, free on a Federal Court order suspending sentence on a two-year term on a mail-fraud charge on account of his illness.

Worthington recently gave himself up in Chicago and was sent to Federal prison in Atlanta. This appearance marked the end of a hide-and-seek game with Federal officials for several months, part of which he spent in Mexico.

On April 17, Worthington and Balentine were accused in a complaint issued by the District Attorney's office of six counts of embezzlement and two of grand larceny, in connection with an asserted misuse of stock placed with the firm by W. K. Slayman of Pasadena and others. The matter never was brought to trial.

Federal agents here are understood to contemplate an investigation of statements credited to Worthington to the effect that he had made $1,500,000 in the past few years. The investigation is said to be based on the fact that Worthington's income-tax statements do not bear out this report.

Mortensen, who is head of the biggest company now actually operating in the district, said that he spoke for fourteen or fifteen of the twenty mills now actually cutting.

The hearing is being conducted to gather evidence on which the commission will pass on the Southern Pacific's request for exclusive development privileges in the Klamath territory and the Oregon trunk's application to extend into the country.

TALMADGE PICTURE TO BE HALTED

Chicago Holds Scenes in Film Involving Twin Sister Role Indecent

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Chief of Police Collins plans to close the doors of the Chicago Theater tomorrow and arrest its owners, Balaban and Katz. Acting on the advice of Corporation Counsel Duesch, the chief intends to ask Mayor Dwyer to revoke the license of the mammoth cinema house.

Back of the chief's action is the refusal of the board of censors to grant a permit for showing a film featuring Constance Talmadge in a twin sister role.

The censors, headed by Mrs. Mabel Rockwell, think Connie is "indecent and immoral" in the way she does some of the scenes. The film began its run today without a permit under a mandamus obtained in Superior Judge Pam's court by First National Pictures, Inc.

When the chief appealed to the corporation counsel for advice, Mr. Busch said any one of several methods could be used in stopping the show.

The four methods by which Chief Collins may act, according to the corporation counsel, are: First, seizure of the film; second, revocation of the showhouse license; third, revocation of the license of the motion-picture operator; and, fourth, arrest or summons of the exhibitor for violating the permit ordinance. The second and fourth methods will be most effective, the chief opined today.

John W. Connelley, Jr., production manager of Schenck Productions, expressed himself surprised last night at the action of the Chicago authorities in attempting to stop the showing of a Constance Talmadge picture.

"We have always made it a point to produce clean pictures," he said, "and Joseph Schenck has always insisted on following this policy closely. 'Her Sister From Paris' has been exhibited in many large cities, and this is the only complaint we have heard. Constance has always produced polite comedies. As a light comedy the subject is treated in such a way that it should not be taken too seriously."

"Her Sister From Paris" has a moral—a wife fights for the love of her husband and wins it; good conquers evil. All the love-making is between a husband and his wife. Surely that is not objectionable."

Constance Talmadge and Joseph Schenck are now in New York.

A theory that raw meat is better for animals than cooked meat is said to have been confirmed by experiments made by Prof. Charles Richet, the French physician. The fish and animals which were fed the raw meat were better nourished in the same space of time than those given the cooked meat.

FINAL DRY AIDE APPOINTED

Coolidge Names Monrovia Man to Reorganized Force; Frith Now Has Complete Staff

With the appointment yesterday by President Coolidge of Otis Sayre, retired capitalist of 155 Green street, Monrovia, as an assistant administrator in charge of the permit bureau, Col. Frith, recently appointed prohibition administrator for the Southern District of California and Arizona, now has completed the reorganization of the district dry forces.

W. W. Anderson, former head of division enforcement and a veteran of the service, was retained by Col. Frith and Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and national prohibition director, as an assistant administrator in charge of enforcement of the Volstead Act. His aide, Ray S. Adams, has continued in the role of chief operative, and directs the bulk of duties connected with dry-law violations.

News dispatches carried word of Mr. Sayre's selection. Up to a late hour yesterday Col. Frith had received no official confirmation of his nomination and approval, but it was announced that his application for the position had been forwarded to Washington several weeks ago.

Duties of the office, a new one under the reorganized administration, consists of supervising Federal permits for transportation of liquor, purchase of sacramental wines and issuance of prescriptions by doctors and druggists.

Mr. Sayre is a former merchant of Ohio and Colorado and since retiring from business five years ago has been a resident of Monrovia, where he has extensive holdings.

The process of moving the office of the administration from the sixth floor of the American Bank Building at Second and Spring streets was completed yesterday with the installation of W. W. Anderson and his workers in the new quarters on the eleventh floor of the Transportation Building.

SENATOR PLEADS CASE OF NEVADA SETTLERS
[BY A. P. MONT WIRE]
RENO, Oct. 12.—United States Senator Odell has appealed directly to President Coolidge for executive action in behalf of the white settlers on the Pyramid Indian reservation, near here, who have been compelled to pay for the lands some of them have occupied since the '60s at their full value after the settlers had devoted years to their improvement and cultivation. Senator Odell asserts that the Interior Department, in making the assessments, has been seriously misinformed and that in the matter, some of the settlers having already purchased the land from the State.

ISLANDER ON WORLD TOUR VISITS HERE
Says Independence Demand of Philippines Has Backing of All Classes

Independence is desired by all classes of Filipinos and not merely by the politicians, according to Serafin Villanueva, wealthy sugar planter of Iloilo, who arrived at the Ambassador yesterday.

The widespread support of the independence movement was seen some time ago when a fund was raised to defray the expense of a commission sent to Washington to work in behalf of independence.

Contributions were received from the laborer who donated 10 cents to the man of wealth whose contribution probably ran into thousands of dollars.

The Filipino planter admits, however, that Uncle Sam's rule in the islands has been the best thing that ever happened to them.

"Our country has benefited more during the quarter century of the American occupation than in all the 400 years prior thereto," he commented.

Mr. Villanueva is in Los Angeles on a tour of the world. He has visited India, Egypt and most of the European countries before coming to America. He holds the distinction of being the first Filipino who ever climbed the Alps.

"I have been more impressed by America than any other country I have visited," he said. "I visited New York, Washington, Chicago and others of the principal cities before coming to the Coast. The thing that has struck me more than anything else in this country is the enterprise of the people. I see evidence of it wherever I go and I shall recall it as the outstanding feature of all I have observed on this tour."

Emotional glycosuria. It has been found that after great emotion and shocks, sugar may appear in the urine, but this is temporary. These factors are not now considered as causes of diabetes. However, it is no doubt that mental stress and strain increase the sugar in the urine if diabetes is present.

Milk sugar may, and often is found in the urine of women during pregnancy and nursing and in nursing babies. This fact is always borne in mind by an expert, but diagnoses of diabetes have been all too often given by those who are not expert or scientific or by many of the so-called doctors who have no right to the title.

DIABETES MELLITUS
Definition: Diabetes mellitus is a disease characterized by an excessive amount of sugar in the blood and by a constant output of sugar in the urine on a normal carbohydrate (sugar) diet.

Diabetes is due to an inflammation, acute or chronic, of the pancreas, in the great majority of cases. This inflammation is probably caused by the absorption of the poisons from acute or chronic, general or local infections. There is a certain school that believes infections in the teeth, tonsils, gastrointestinal tract, or any part of the body, may be causes of diabetes through toxic absorption or through the entry of living microorganisms.

Overweight. When there is an abnormal increase in the body fat, there is imposed a burden upon the pancreatic function, which tends to develop any latent diabetic tendency.

Overweight is not a direct cause, because there are many who are overweight who do not develop diabetes, but if there is a tendency to the disease, then the overeating (especially of starch and sugar) which causes overweight, plus the excess fat itself, cause a strain on the pancreas. This strain is the factor that causes the secretion of the pancreas to become abnormal which has to do with the normal utilization of the sugar in the body.

Authorities on diabetes state that fully 75 per cent of diabetes are overweight before manifesting that disease.

"Renal" diabetes. It has been established that there may be a constant appearance of sugar in the urine where there is no true diabetes. This condition is due to the fact that the kidneys allow part of the normal blood sugar to escape constantly. In these cases the body has not lost its power to care for the starches and sugars and there are none of the symptoms of ordinary diabetes. However, they have to be carefully and constantly watched to be sure they do not develop true diabetes or inflammation of the kidney.

Next week I am going to give you a test that you can perform yourself to determine whether or not you have sugar in the urine. Tomorrow: Answers to Correspondents.

RYE AND LIMBURGER—AND BEER

Last Ingredient of Famous Combination Declared to Have Been Included in Contreras's Order at Bakery; Proprietor and Mother Nabbed by Squad

Beer with rye bread and limburger cheese as an institution was established or re-established yesterday, according to George Contreras, chief dry enforcement officer for Dist.-Atty. Kayes.

Feeling that lanes craving which cries out loudly for rye bread, spread liberally with limburger cheese, Contreras stepped into a bakery at 344 Humphrey avenue, Belvedere.

"I want three loaves of good rye bread and a pound of limburger cheese," he said to the proprietor, Joseph O. Gonzales.

The proprietor, according to Contreras, lifted his eyebrows slightly and Contreras nodded.

"Yes," said Contreras.

The proprietor, according to Contreras, promptly went up the rye bread, the limburger and three bottles of beer. He put the package under his arm and walked to the door, where he signaled his trusty sleuths and the proprietor found himself under arrest. Gonzales and his aged mother, Mrs. M. Gonzales, were placed under arrest for manufacturing and selling intoxicants.

According to the officers, they seized eighty-nine bottles of beer and eighteen gallons ready to be bottled, as well as complete bottling apparatus. Gonzales was released on bond in Justice Court at a drug store at Hermosa Beach, located on her own recognizance.

The squad previously had arrested Fermin Jaldin, proprietor of a drug store at Hermosa Beach, of this city.

and Carl Sadler, a clerk, on charges of selling alcohol for beverage purposes. They were released on bail of $1000 each in the Justice Court at El Monte.

Miss Musio's Flora Held Personal Triumph

Kosloff's Dance Caprice Is Delightful Novelty

SINGERS COMPARED

Mary Garden, of course, has made the role of Flora both magnificent and unforgettable. One must always think of her performance as one of consummate brilliance. The tempestuous tower and the restrained and tortured fire of every gesture as she succumbed to her flaming infatuation for Avito. Personally, I will have no Floras but Garden. Because, though she may sing badly and even act badly, she is supreme as a personality and a presence. The Flora role is not one of terrific art and imagination; it is rather one subtly prevailing individuality. And where Miss Garden's interpretation may have been deficient in certain of its artistic aspects, it was glorious in its resplendent emotional frenzy. I would not gainsay that Miss Musio gave to her audience a very fine Flora. If it was less big in power than expectations might have led one to believe from her work as Tosca and Aida I would not lay the fault altogether at her door either, because all the factors in the production were not favorable to the most outstanding success in this opera.

At moments some might have detected a resemblance in this episode to the work of Miss Garden which is so dominating in the mind anyway, but taken all in all, Miss Musio's portrayal must be reckoned as quite personal. I think, too, that it may grow into a great interpretation, because she has the quality to give it a new dignity. I frankly would like to see what her accomplishment will be a year or two from now. Her entrance scene in the opening act was unusually lovely. This is a scene which Garden does not perhaps make quite so meaningful.

COMPARATIVE EXCELLENCE

I wish that, all in all, I had heard Miss Musio in this role under somewhat more favorable auspices than prevailed in the production as a whole. It might have added something to her performance. The presentation was somewhat disappointing, as compared with the others during the engagement, although naturally its demands were among the heaviest.

I did not feel that Gaetano Merola rose to his obligations as a conductor of a score which is a veritable treasure house of novel and enchanting modern beauty. The character of Montemali's music did not come out vividly. The test tonight that the orchestra reached was in the lower section, and that was comparatively excellent. The first act, however, suggested considerably. There did not seem to be the cohesiveness to the themes that there should have been, and at times the effect appeared actually cloudy. I do not seriously hold this against Merola in view of his many other activities and other very satisfactory readings, but it must be said that the true spirit of the work, particularly in its subtlety, seemed to elude him.

Fernand Anseau sang Avito with a great deal of sentiment, but without surpassing dramatic brilliance. His voice sounded very well in the more lyrical moments. From Journal I expected somewhat more as Archibaldo, in view of his previous performance. He did not have the best opportunity, though, in the opening act, because of the heaviness of the orchestra. Altogether, his success was the nearest to being consistent. Stracciari's Manfredi cannot be rated the equal of some of his other roles, where less lyrical work is required of him. However, he gave it some semblance of romantic vigor.

Lodovico Oliviero was outstanding among the minor principals, who also included Elinor Mario, Lucia Castellani, Mary Tellworth and Henry Canen.

Mabel Van Buren, noted character actress, has adopted a 10-year-old boy. Miss Van Buren has been off the screen for almost two years, since the death of her husband, and has adopted the boy in order to give him a home as well as to be a companion for her. Miss Van Buren is returning to the screen in Hobart Henley's production of "Free Lips," starring Norma Shearer, for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Lew Cody is playing a featured role.

MIDGETS PLEASE AT HILLSTREET

Neatly balanced is the bill at the Hillstreet this week. Almost perfectly balanced, indeed, with two excellent numbers offset by two of quite the reverse type.

However, the headliner, Singer's Midgets, quite upsets the balance in favor of a good program. As always, the midgets are entirely captivating and come in for a mighty share of sincere applause.

Lavishly staged, in ten short numbers, the act takes on all the color and interest of a revue. It seems that the appeal of the diminutive entertainers is perpetual. Their impersonations of such footlight celebrities as Ann Pennington and the Duncan and Dolly Sisters meet with considerable approval.

The burlesque prize fight, the remarkably clever number with the trained baby elephants and the musical comedy wedding ensemble were particularly appreciated.

Of the other bright lights on the current program, too much praise cannot be given Eva Clark. Her charming personality, combined with her lovely voice, is a treat. She is most fortunate in such a capable accompanist as Dan Casar, whose numbers alone were enthusiastically received. Miss Clark

Tropical Magic Seen on Screen in Kyne Story

"Never The Twain Shall Meet," Peter B. Kyne's enchanting story of the South Sea Islands, is now showing at the Alhambra.

This picture was filmed in Tahiti and Moorea, two of the South Sea group. The cast includes such prominent players as Anita Stewart, Bert Lytell, Huntley Gordon, Justine Johnston, George Sigmund, Lionel Belmore, William Morris, Emil Fitzroy, Princess Maria de Bourbon and Florence Turner.

In the role of Tamea, the half-caste island princess, Anita Stewart appears in a characterization thoroughly suited to her enchanting personality—a portrayal which calls for many phases of dramatic intensity, varied with comedy situations. Bert Lytell plays opposite Miss Stewart in the role of Dr. Fritchard.

The production is lavish in the extreme and as the picture develops on the screen there is a breadth and freedom, a tropical magic and a pictorial panorama of loveliness seldom visualized with a moving picture camera. In addition to a wealth of scenic beauty there is an equal beauty in the exotic interior setting designed by the masterful hand of Joseph Urban.

'Annie Rooney' Next Film at Million Dollar

Managing Director Frank L. Newman of the Los Angeles Paramount houses announces that immediately following Harold Lloyd's comedy success, "The Freshman," which closes its eight weeks' run at the Million-Dollar Theater the 31st inst., Mary Pickford in her latest and greatest success, "Little Annie Rooney," will be the attraction at that theater.

Miss Pickford's return in the type of role which has endeared her to picture fans will be made the occasion of a premiere on the 22nd inst. Miss Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and prominent stars and members of the screen world will attend.

This picture has been awaited with keenest interest and Mr. Newman is especially gratified to announce the premiere for his theater. The story, written especially for Miss Pickford, was inspired by the popular song "Little Annie Rooney." The localists in the tenement district of New York City.

MAYER COMING WEST FOR FALL PROGRAM

Following a series of conferences between Marcus Loew, Nicholas Schenck and Louis B. Mayer, the latter, in company with a party of players and directors, has left New York on route to Los Angeles, where the producer will launch a great program for the last half of the 1925-26 picture season.

In Mayer's party are Antonio Moreno, who has just completed the male role of "Mare Nostrum," which Rex Ingram directed abroad; Elinor Brun, the well-known English director, and Mr. Mayer has just signed to direct for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer; Einar Hansen, popular Swedish actor, who has played in a number of plays in the M-G-M films; Miss E. Marsh, costume designer, who has been added to the wardrobe staff at the studio; and Pete Smith, director of publicity.

Others in the party are Mrs. Louis H. Mayer, wife of the head of the studio; Mrs. Moreno, who accompanied her husband abroad, and Mrs. Einar Brun.

The hardest role ever assigned Theodore Von Eltz just finished in "The Red Kimono," a Mrs. Wallace Reid production, was also his. The part was difficult because out of more than fifty who were suggested for it, only one, Von Eltz, was suitable. It was easy because it called for a screen character exactly like the Von Eltz of real life—a serious-minded, ambitious young American.

GLAD TO SEE YOU!

TELL IT TO THEIR FACES THEY ARE GOOD

By Grace Kingsley

You are all true artists down there at the Orpheum this week, you actors, so don't any of you get your feelings hurt if I choose somebody else besides yourself to talk about first, because, of course, you can't all be first now, can you, as the fellow said?

We liked you all, Mrs. Clarence Brown and I, and I'm going to tell you why. I like you all so much, I'm telling it right to your face. So gather around, children of Orpheum, and list to our tale—list to us as if we were music!

Ben Blue, you surely held the show up longer than a bandit takes to go through a train. You are fresh and different and unusually humorous, and that slow motion-picture dance you do is the worst thing of the kind we've seen. We immensely liked your orchestra, too, especially the part where you wear vintage whiskers proper to the period and take off those famous old funny-looking old musicians. We like your pretty lady pianist, too—great idea, that feminine decoration. Mrs. Clarence wants me to tell the xylophone player for her that she forgives the instrument on account of the performer.

Well! When Victor Soderstrom sees you, he is going to be sore to think that he didn't name his song "Rosita" instead of "March." You're the dearest, muchacha, we've had from your neck of the woods, and we hope you will multiply yourself indefinitely by going into pictures, now that you are here. Don't see how you can possibly escape. But don't tell Harry Delf I said that, because I'll bet he'll be mad. What a little dancer you are, to be sure, and how cleverly you have adapted those native folk dances of yours to our jazy day. I like Nena, Nena, very much. Dear, dear! I do hope I am dealing your names out right to your very sister. I like your Spanish folk dance, Nena, very much. Dear, dear! I do hope I am dealing your names out right to your very sister. I like your Spanish folk dance, Nena, very much. Dear, dear! I do hope I am dealing your names out right to your very sister.

Which brings us in by the back door, so to speak, Harry, to talk about yourself. You've had this act so long, Harry, that nobody needs to tell you that it is good because everybody already has. Do you mind my saying it improves with age, really? Especially that comic interpretative Greek dance, and that snappy bit where you impersonate all the different kinds of vaudeville acts with just enough burlesque to make it a scream. Pardon, maybe you have some or two today. Anyhow, the old ones are good enough.

Allen, you Pasquali Brothers! I'm tickled to death to see the cleverness of acrobats has won a spot for them somewhere on the bill besides the place where they obligate our incomes or outgoings. You have a mighty smart turn with your hand-balancing and cutting stunts, you two.

Why, Marie Walsh and Frank Ellis, hello! What a nice little mouse in a nice little house our Marie! Bright chatterbox, you two have, too. You found out, too, didn't you, from the noise in the house when you finished that "ours is a nice house, ours is!"

Joe Morris and Beth Miller, we're glad you stuck along another week.

Maude McKinley, they made us take a seat away in the back of the house because we arrived in the middle of one of your solos. But it was as well, because there were tears in our eyes. We remember that debut of yours that you speak of, oh, so well. How charming you were then, and you haven't lost a bit of it, either—and your voice is sweeter and mellower than ever, dear. And you are just as alluring and brave in spite of the crutches.

Which leaves it up to the two pretty girls, all in all, to see in our row to tell me so that I can tell you about Nathane and Sully, dancers. They say "thumbs up," and they aren't say a word, either, being regular Orpheum addicts. They say that you danced sweetly and neatly, and altogether make Mrs. Clarence and me very sorry that we missed you.

Three pink tickets like these, children, and you can change them for a larger ticket with more birds and flowers on it next Sunday!

PRISCILLA DEAN TO PLAY 'THE BRIDE'
